WILBUR WRIGHT DIES AT DAYTON

End Comes Peacefully to the Noted Inventor.

FIRST AVIATOR OF THE WORLD

Passes Away After a Brave Fight Against Death.

Wilbur Wright Shares with Brother, Orrville, Distinction of Being the First To Fly, and as an Inventor His Name Is Classed with Watt, Fulton, Edison and Others—A Sketch of His Career.

Dayton, O., May 30.—Wilbur Wright, first aviator of the world, died here at 3 30 a. m. today. The man, who with his brother, Orville, invented and perfected the first successful heavier-than-air-flying machine, succumbed to typhoid fever after one of the most remarkable struggles against the disease that physicians have ever known. For more than thirty-six hours, Wright's temperature had stood between 104 and 105 degrees, while his respiration was between forty and fifty. His pulse averaged 140. Stimulants were resorted to and for the last three days have been used freely. Since midnight this morning, Wright began to sink rapidly. His pulse grew weaker and he failed to respond to stimulants

At Wright's bedside today were his father, Bishop Milton Wright, sister, Katherine, his brother and coworker and inventor, Orville Wright, and Lorin and Reuchlin Wright, younger brothers Dr. Conklin was in attendance when the end came.

Wilbur Wright's illness began a little more than three weeks ago. He grew rapidly worse and his condition became critical within a week after he had been attacked by the malady.

Orville Wright, brother of the inventor, who was in Washington taking up with the government officials some matters in connection with the government's use of the Wright machines, was summoned home. Shortly after he arrived, cablegrams were sent to foreign countries which the inventor had expected soon to visit saying it would be impossible to make the trip for some days. Then for the first time it was known that Wilbur's condition was such as to give alarm

Wright Rallies.

Wright rallied after the first sinking spell and his wonderful vitality made the physicians hope that he might recover He aroused himself sufficiently to say that he would get well, and then he grimly battled against disease A second sinking spell occurred and three days ago, Dr Conklin announced that there was no hope Wright sank into a state of coma He rallied slightly and though his fever was very high, there seemed a slight chance that he might recover. The fight he made caused the physicians yesterday to issue a hopeful statement.

"I do not know what the outcome will be," the doctor said. "Wright has remarkable vitality and he is putting up a gallant fight. He may live I cannot tell"

Wright's condition again took a turn for the worse about midnight. He sank into unconsciousness and during the last few hours was kept alive only through stimulants.

Early today it was seen that the end was not far off and the entire family was summoned. All were in the room when the aviator passed away.

The aviator's condition sank lower and lower as the morning hours sped by. Shortly after 1 o'clock it was thought he was dying. His heart action became very low The stimulants were again used and his heart responded slightly. The final sinking spell began about 3 o'clock He died peacefully

Brother Overcome.

Orville Wright, the brother, who has shared in Wright's work and its achievements, was overcome. Their sister, Katherine, who helped the brothers when they were struggling with their invention and who shared their triumphal European trip and their home-coming after the success of their machines had been demonstrated, though overcome herself, strove to comfort Orville.

Wright's mother is dead and his sister, Katherine, has taken the mother's place in the home since that time.

No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

A complication of kidney trouble is supposed to have been the cause for the first sinking spell after it was believed the fever had been broken.

Career of Inventor.

Wilbur Wright shared with his brother, Orville, the distinction of being the first to fly. Students of world progress have placed these names in the hall of fame in immediate proximity to those other pioneers of advancement, Gutenburg, Watt, Fulton, Stevenson, Edison, Bell and Marconi.

Wilbur Wright and his brother, natives of Ohio, began their experiments in flying when they were mere boys. Their stepfather gave them a helicopter as a toy. The curious little instrument, when wound up, flew about the room over the heads of the delighted youngsters. Unlike most boys, instead of quarreling for possession of the toy, they played with it together and set their precocious young brains to the task of first imitating and them improving upon the toy. As they grew up, their interest in aviation was manifested in the building of kites and finally in 1896 they took up in earnest the study of actual flight.

They were in the bicycle business in Dayton, Ohio It was with the profits of this business that they defrayed their expenses of experiment. In 1901 they operated their first gliding motorless biplane. Exhaustive study of air pressure during the following winter was followed by more experiments in 1902, increased in 1903, and they then attached to the glider a gasoline motor of the type used in automobiles.

First Flying Machine.

These later experiments were conducted at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, and in lieu of a passenger they attached an anvil to the biplane for the first flights On the 17th day of October, 1903, the machine flew with its inventor. Owing to their secrecy, the world doubted their success until four years later, when they publicly demonstrated their ability to fly, and proved beyond contradiction that two years before any other man had flown for one minute they had flown repeatedly for more than twenty miles.

With the perfection of the Wright biplane, Wilbur Wright went abroad, where he was hailed in every land as the ingenious Yankee who really could fly. In Paris, the native aeronauts served only as a background for his fame. Royalty and nobility honored him everywhere, but he remained the dry, secretive, centered, good-natured American, who was making a business of flying. After accepting contracts with several European governments for supplying airships for military purposes, Wilbur Wright returned to the United States to find that "the prophet without honor in his own country" was a world idol to be honored at last at home.

At the White House, honors were showered on him and the army adopted him as savior of the nation's prestige in aerial navigation as applied to military maneuvers. Dayton closed up shop and held a three-day fete in honor of the two men who had been known to them years agone as "those crazy Wright boys."

But the Wright brothers were too busy to play the hero. They had machines to make for the world They were making them in Germany, in Scotland and in Dayton, and still they could not make enough of them.

Their business grew and they quit flying. They taught others to fly and soon the countryside of every state was billed with flaming announcements of aviators in thrilling exhibitions in the Wright machines.

Wilbur Wright had always counseled caution in flyng. It was a science to him, not a circus perform-

LAST VOTE ON THE INITIATIVE

Manner of Its Submission Not Considered.

THE SINGLE TAX MEN DEFEATED

Delegate Tannehill Warms Up in Convention.

Resents Attempt To Attack Non-Partisan Ballot to Direct Primary Proposal and Is Susained by a Majority of Constitutional Convention Delegates—A New Style of Judiciary Recall Introduced.

Columbus, O., May 30.—By a vote of 85 to 14 the constitutional convention passed an initiative and referendum measure, but left the manner of its submission, for consideration at today's session.

The I. and R measure as passed cuts down the percentages, and though the single tax element tried desperately to get the inhibition against the single tax out, they failed by an overwhelming vote.

The proposal provides that 3 per cent of the electors can petition for a law and have it submitted to the general assembly. If the legislature does not act or passes an amended act, the proposers may file 3 more per cent and have the act, with or without amendments, submitted to the people. This is called the Wisconsin plan, but does not contain all its safeguards. In scaling down from 12 to 10 per cent the constitutional initiative, there is a reduction of at least 20,000 signatures.

Tannehill Warms Up.

"I won't allow my neighbors to throw dead cats into my back yard," said Delegate Tannehill of Morgan county, in resisting the attempt of radicals to write into his direct primaries proposal the provision for nonpartisan elections of members of the general assembly. Earlier in the day the nonpartisan amendment, which was made a part of the initiative and referendum proposal and then reconsidered, was killed. Immediately radicals laid plans to tack it on Mr. Tannehill's proposal.

The convention, 56 to 49, stood by him and prevented the engrafting of the amendment. Mr. Ulmer proposed to make the primary ballot secret, so that the voter need not state his politics when voting at primaries, but was beaten overwhelmingly. Bitterest debate came when Judge Peck proposed to give the general assembly discretion of revoking the primary system. He declared primaries are a sham and a fraud and make for boss rule. His amendment was killed after Mr. Tannehill and others declared it would vitiate the proposal. The proposal, which requires direct nominations in all political divisions save municipalities and townships, carried by a big vote.

Eby Springs New One.

During consideration of Mr. Halfhill's proposal for changing the common pleas judicial system Mr. Eby brought in a brand-new system of recall. It provided that on petition of 12 per cent of the electors any case, civil or criminal, might be taken for trial into another county. It was killed.

Under the proposal, which passed over feeble opposition, each county will have at least one common pleas judge, but counties of less than 60,000 population, on a referendum vote, may combine the common pleas and probate courts.

The Knight proposal giving to school districts in cities the right to self-government was passed by a vote of 70 to 26.

The Jones proposal for the Torrens or Australian system of registering and guaranteeing land titles was reconsidered and passed Other measures passed were by Mr. Helenkamp, allowing the state to go into the printing business by Mr Taggart, making the constitution more easily amendable, and by Mr. Weybrecht, to allow suits to be brought against the state without first obtaining leave from the general assembly.

MORE WAITERS GO ON STRIKE

Proprietors Threaten To Close Swell Eating Places.

THEY REFUSE TO RECOGNIZE UNION

All New York Feels Effect of the Trouble.

Owners of Prominent Restaurants and Hotels Make Proposition Covering Most of Demands of Employes, but Stand Pat on Determination To Conduct Their Own Business.

New York, May 30.—That the International Hotel Workers' union was not bluffing when its officers declared that it would cripple the fashionable eating establishments of the city, is becoming a matter of general belief. After a day of threats and hints all waiters, busses, pantry help and kitchen men of the Waldorf, not including the chefs, walked out and in rapid succession came the similar forces from the Breslin, Rector's and the Gotham, who were out for a little while. There were more rumors that other big hotels and restaurants are to suffer within the next 24 hours, and unless the union is recognized by the proprietors the strikes will continue until there will not be a fashionable eating establishment doing its usual business in the city.

Proposition Is Submitted.

Against this proposition later there came word from the Hotel Men's association that there might be a backfire in the fight. The assertion was made that five of the largest hotels of the city have practically agreed that if they find themselves doing business at too great inconvenience to themselves and to their patrons they will deliberately shut down the culinary departments of their establishments, said departments to remain closed until the waiters come to their senses. The names of the hotels were not given officially, and the individual managements declined to discuss that phase of the situation. It was said that these hotels jointly employ regularly about 1,450 first-class waiters, with busses, and that they are the most sought after of all positions by the highly trained specialists who are now suffering from the strike epidemic. In the meantime the hotels in question and other establishments have made an offer to their men which practically amounts to a concession of all the union demands except that there is a positive refusal to recognize the union or union interference in the management of the places.

The 400 waiters, pantrymen, busses and minor kitchen men of the Waldorf also went out.

No Prizefight Films For Him.

Washington, May 30.—Representative Rodenberry of Georgia does not propose that the pictures of the prizefight between Jack Johnson and "White Hope" Flynn shall be exhibited to the public if he can help it. He introduced a resolution prohibiting the transportation of pictures or films of prizefights in interstate commerce.

THREE YOUNG MEN CONFESS HOLDUPS

Trio Placed Behind the Bars of a Chicago Jail.

Chicago, May 30.—Three young men, scarcely more than boys, ate in jail today after having confessed to the police their part in one murder and thirty holdups. The three prisoners are Harry Jacaby, twenty-one, former cowboy, who was the leader of the trio He admitted that he killed John Angel in a saloon late in April. His companions, Thomas Bromad, nineteen, and Benjamin Ladalski, twenty-one, were drawn into the murder and the holdups because of their admiration for the adventures of their cowboy leader.

The two were so enamored with the tales of adventure that they readily consented to join Jacaby in his deeds of daring in Chicago They confessed that they played a part in the Angel murder The three robbers left their revolvers with a friendly restaurant keeper. Every night at 9 o'clock they called for them Every morning about 2.30 they returned them. The restaurant man, James Collis, told the police he never suspected the young men were doing anything worng.

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE CLOSES

New Church Ritual To Be Presented at 1916 Conference.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 30.—With the pronouncing of the benediction by the venerable Bishop Henry W. Warren, the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church closed.

The conference authorized a commission which will prepare a report on revision of church ritual, to be presented to the 1916 general conference.

The conference's last act was considered by the delegates as one of the most important matters of legislation before the 1912 gathering, the approval of the amendment to the bishop of the race clause. The clause was favored by the episcopacy committee, and after a lengthy debate, participated in by the negro delegates of the south, was adopted by a vote of 520 to 45. This was not a two-thirds vote of the entire conference, but was sufficient, it was decided, to refer the question for approval to the annual and lay conferences of the next four years and to bring it up at the 1916 conference for final action.

HARMON GATHERS IN THREE DELEGATIONS

Governor Loses Out in One County Convention.

Columbus, O., May 30. — Harmon won three counties and lost one in the county conventions held to select delegates to the state convention at Toledo next week.

Only one county, Perry, had a Republican convention. The delegates are uninstructed and probably are for Colonel Roosevelt.

The governor's friends were in control in Clinton, Brown and Paulding counties, and it is said all the 17 delegates selected will favor the modified unit rule. Governor Harmon was beaten in Highland county, which chose a hostile delegation of seven, headed by L. L. Faris of Hillsboro, who was defeated as a Wilson delegate in the Sixth district. Highland men are behind General O. H. Hughes for governor

PRE-CONVENTION BATTLE IN SIGHT

New National Committeemen To Demand Seats.

POINT OF LAW IS TO BE INVOLVED

Roosevelt Men and Taft Followers May Clash.

Nebraska Roosevelt Supporter and Several Other Roosevelt Adherents Elected at Primaries Contend That Their Tenure of Office Begins at Once, While Committeeman Now Denies the Contention.

Chicago, May 30.—Quite a stir was created among members of the Republican national committee when announcement was made that R. B. Howell, recently elected to membership in the committee from Nebraska by direct primary, would come to Chicago June 6, when the committee meets to hear contests and demand his seat.

At the local Roosevelt headquarters it was said that Mr. Howell had been advised that under the law he was entitled to immediate possession of his seat as member of the Republican national committee from Nebraska, and he would insist on recognition when the committee meets to hear contests on June 6.

Mr. Howell is a supporter of Colonel Roosevelt and was chosen at the direct primaries as the successor of Victor Rosewater, acting chairman of the Republican national committee, whose official duty it would be to call the Republican national convention to order on June 18 and introduce Senator Elihu Root as temporary chairman.

Thomas K. Niedringhaus, elected national Republican committeeman from the state of Missouri under the direct primary, and others similarly elected will, it is said, demand their seats when the committee meets next week.

New Problem Presented.

Roosevelt managers here declare there are at least five new national committeemen who will attempt to assume their official duties before the question of contests is taken up by the committee. The operation of the direct primary law in a number of states where the national committeemen are chosen by popular vote instead of by the delegates presents a new problem which will in all probability have to be dealt with either by the national committee or the national convention.

Harry S. New, chairman of the subcommittee on arrangements of the convention, said:

"The term of a national committeeman begins with the adjournment of the convention, when the new members always are called upon to meet and assume their official duties. This is the rule and practice of party and is as old as the party itself. There is no just demand or reasonable excuse for a departure from this rule, in my opinion.

"A candidate for president who receives a majority of the votes might, with equal propriety, go to the White House the minute the vote is canvassed and demand the office on the ground that he wanted the office so bad he could not wait until the incumbent's term expired.

"The Republican party has a right to an orderly convention and it is the duty of the Republican national committee to see that it has."

ROOSEVELT PEOPLE FOR TWO SESSIONS

Delegates to the State Convention Are So Registered.

Columbus, O., May 30—At the local Roosevelt headquarters the following statement was given out:

"Prevalent sentiment of the delegates gives assurance that the state convention will adjourn after electing six delegates-at-large to the national convention. The state ticket will be nominated and the state platform will be adopted at an adjourned session to be held after the national convention.

"Delegates generally believe this method will best make for party success in November, assuring that the state platform will be in full accord with the national platform and that the state ticket to be nominated will be one which will unite the party in the Ohio campaign.

"The plan to postpone the making of the platform and ticket until after the Chicago convention has the support of the Roosevelt delegates generally, of the uninstructed delegation from Cuyahoga county and of the Hamilton county delegates."

LaFollette Not Dismayed.

Washington, May 30—Undismayed by personal reverses on the Pacific coast and in Ohio and New Jersey, Senator LaFollette began a week's ante-primary fight in South Dakota.

REPUBLICANS GATHER IN COUNTY CONVENTION

Meeting Held in the Common Pleas Court-Room.

RESOLUTIONS ARE OFFERED AND ADOPTED

William Z. Davis Is Endorsed for a Place on the Supreme Court Bench—Richard L. Cameron Is Endorsed for State Senator—A Review of Short Meeting.

It took the Republican county convention only a few minutes to meet in the court-room, Saturday, at 1:30 o'clock, listen to a rattling good speech by Temporary Chairman Grant E. Mouser and unanimously indorse for renomination Supreme Judge William Z. Davis, of Marion, and former Senator R. L. Cameron, of Marysville.

The convention had nothing else to do in view of the primary and in the absence of calls for senatorial and judicial conventions The convention's deliberations were over in about ten minutes.

Dr. Carlos J. Nichols, chairman of the Republican Central committee, called the small gathering to order. He announced then names of Grant E. Mouser as temporary chairman and L. E. Myers as secretary. Mr Myers withdrew his name and suggested J. S. Bonner, of La Rue, in his stead.

Chairman Mouser began his address by saying that the Republicans had assembled in a sort of a perfunctory way, by reason of the fact that the primary had taken from the convention the task of appointing the state convention delegates and naming the party ticket. He touched briefly on the fact that calls for the judicial and senatorial conventions had been neglected, and said that nominations for these places would have to be made by petition, thus carrying out the spirit of the primary.

Just a Love Feast.

"We're just assembled in a sort of old-fashioned love feast," declared the former Thirteenth district congressman, with considerable fervor. "There's no particular thing for us to do. We're glad to see Roosevelt and Taft Republicans mingling together, for after all we are just plain Republicans, and we are all going to be united on our standard-bearer and march to a glorious old Republican victory this fall under the same old banner

"I have had time to look over the nominations. We have nominated a splendid county ticket; in fact, a very strong Republican ticket. They are all good and competent men. We have tried out our primary system and I don't hear much discord or many protests.

"I predict that the Republicans will be generally satisfied with it and the spirit of harmony and justice will prevail Men will forget their differences and they will march together, Taft and Roosevelt men, with one voice and one purpose"

Chairman Mouser then spoke of the candidacy of Judge W. Z Davis. He said that Judge Davis had been one of the best Ohio supreme justices in fifty years, and paid him a glowing eulogy.

Malcolm Jennings, delegate from the Third ward, presented the following resolutions

The Resolutions.

Resolved, That the Republicans of Marion county, in convention assembled, without regard to their attitude upon other questions of policies and candidacies, unite most cordially and enthusastically in urging upon the consideration of the electors of the state the favorable consideration of the candidacy of of our fellow-citizen, William Z. Davis, for renomination for the office of Judge of supreme court. Since his first election, Judge Davis has given to the state the most faithful and valuable service, and the wisdom and integrity of his course has never been called in question. As chief justice of the supreme court he has made innovations in forms of procedure which have greatly expedited the consideration and decision of causes and worked many reforms in the elimination of needless delays and in the waiving aside of unimportant technicalities to reach judgment according with justice, the law and the evidence. We take pride in the record Judge Davis has made, we have knowledge of his high character, wide culture and learning, and we perform not only a neighborly function, but a patriotic duty, in supporting him for renomination. Be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be transmitted to the delegates elected to the Republican state convention, and that all those who can help the cause of Marion county in this behalf shall be cordially invited to cooperate with us.

Resolved, That we express our approval of the candidates nominated for county offices by the Republicans of Marion county at the primaries, May 21, 1912, and pledge them our earnest support during the canvass and at the polls

Resolved, That we feel that the services of Senator Richard L. Cameron, of Union county, merited a reelection and that, believing the people would, if given opportunity, again avail themselves of his character, ability and experience, we therefore endorse Senator Cameron for renomination and in the absence of a call for a senatorial convention, empower our central committee to prepare and secure signatures to a petition nominating Mr. Cameron for the office of senator from the Thirteenth-Thirty-First joint district, and to take such steps as are possible to place his name on the ticket as a Republican candidate.

After reading the resolutions, Mr. Jennings moved their adoption. The motion was seconded by Dr. Nichols, and they were adopted unanimously.

The convention then adjourned, and the various central committeemen went into session in the grand jury room to elect a chairman.

MARION'S SCHOOL CENSUS INCREASED

Largest School Enumeration in City's History.

SIX ENUMERATORS EMPLOYED IN WORK

It is Found That There Are 5,002 Children of School Age in the City—The City Receives Two Dollars Each for the Education of the Youth—Census by Wards.

Marion's 1912 school census, is 5,002, an increase of 555 over last year. This is the largest school enumeration in the city's history.

Mutiplied by the usual mutiple of four, the population of 20,000, as given by the directory census, is thus verified by the school enumeration

The census was conducted by Mrs A M Huchinson, clerk of the board of education, and six enumerators were employed to do the work. They were paid three cents for each person between the ages of six and twenty-one enumerated

With possibly one exception, the enumerators performed their duties to the entire satisfaction of the board.

The territory, including the South-We-Go addition and the McKinley school building, near the baseball park, is not included in the census The territory was ceded to the city, but no certificate of transfer on the part of the township board was ever filed with County Auditor Jay Spaulding At the last meeting of the Marion boad of education, Member H Edmond Hill suggested that the clerk and the president procure this certificate and file it so that seventy or 100 people of school age in that district could be enumerated and the board would thereby receive two dollars each for them from the state However, the township board wanted the territory for enumeration purposes this year and declined to grant the certificate at this time

Following is the enumeration by wards

First—1,189
Second—1,345.
Third—1,677.
Fourth—791

The enumerators were Mrs Mayme Herr Frank, G W Robertson, Clyde R Dunn, Frank Purinton, Streeter G Smith and Thomas Phillips

DEMOCRATS MEET IN THE COURT-ROOM

Gathering of the Faithful Saturday Afternoon.

JUDGE W. E. SCOFIELD DELIVERS AN ADDRESS

Refers to the Present Situation of the Republican and Democratic Parties and the Evidences of Coming Democratic Success — The Selections Made.

Shortly after the Republican convention adjourned, at 1:30 o'clock, the court-room began to fill with delegates to the Democratic county convention, and there was the usual buzz of conversation as the various delegations found their allotted places.

It was just 2:10 o'clock when Martin J. Burke, chairman of the central committee, called the convention to order. He announced the temporary officers as follows

Judge William E. Scofield, chairman; M. A. Mickley and J. Wilbur Jacoby secretaries, and J. Austin Reed, sergeant-at-arms.

Assumes the Gavel.

Upon assuming the gavel, Judge Scofield was given an ovation He dwelled at length on the old-time Democratic enthusiasm, and predicted that the ticket nominated would be elected this fall. He took occastion to pay a tribute to the late H. T. Van Fleet, as one of the "grandest old Democratic wheelhorses in Marion county," and quoted him as saying that the most fortunate man, after all, was the candidate who lost.

Judge Scofield said he believed what Mr. Van Fleet said to be true, but he was sure that the ticket nominated would be elected nevertheless

A Bitter Comment.

Bitterly the common pleas judge scored the unheard-of spectacle of the president of the United States appealing for votes directly to the people and a former president doing the same.

"We have recently heard the speech of a former president, who scrambled to the top of a boxcar, and made an appeal to the common people," declared the judge "His entire address was one to inspire class hatred."

Conduct Denounced.

In no uncertain terms the temporary chairman denounced the conduct of Theodore Roosevelt and that of President Taft, whom, he said, had been forced to violate precedent and campaign for votes. He compared the dignity of the two candidates with that of President McKinley, and added that the people of this country would not tolerate again the "foisting of a candidate from president upon them"

Harmon Is Choice.

"I think the choice of the convention, from a source of local pride, should be an Ohio man," declared the judge, in speaking of the Baltimore convention. He spoke of the fact that Governor Harmon had been elected governor of Ohio twice and thought he should receive the endorsement of Ohio in the national convention.

The judge then paid a tribute to Governor Harmon and the delegates applauded loudly. But he did not stop there He eulogized all the Democratic candidates for president, and when he had concluded, the famous "Smiling Billy" Scofield smiled and said

"Gentlemen, what is the further wish of the convention?"

Bryan Mentioned.

John C McNally arose in the convention and wanted to know what was the matter with endorsing Bryan.

Judge Scofield had refrained from mentioning the Nebraskan's name

After reading the convention's list of delegates and alternates by Secretary Jacoby, Chairman Scofield said it would stand approved.

The Unit Rule.

Friday night it was said that the resolution to be adopted at the convention would endorse Harmon for the presidency, and the unit rule and a draft containing this had been made before the convention convened However, it was said in corridor conversation that the endorsement of the unit rule had been withdrawn

Chairman Scofield appointed the following committee on resolutions. George B Christian, Jr., Thomas Cleary, Chas Haberman, John Alt, O P Linn and John Merchant

A committee of six on rules and order of business was appointed as follows C E Gompf, O S Anthony, A W Bryant, Harry Crawbauch, O G Behner and C W. Retterer

On motion the convention's temporary organization was made permanent

While the convention waited for the committees to report, N E Arnold, Frank L Spicer and Thomas A Gruber, defeated primary candidates, and Homer E Johnson, successful candidate, for prosecuting attorney, made addresses.

The resolutions endorsed Judson Harmon for president and as governor, Carl C Anderson, as congressman, R H Finefrock as senator and W E Scofield for supreme judge

The unit rule was not mentioned

Delegates Selected.

Had there been an attempt to put through a resolution approving Governor Harmon's unit rule in the Marion county Democratic delegate convention, Saturday afternoon, a warm fight would have followed. This is the view of Bryan and Wilson Democrats, many of wom were busy, hours before the convention met, button-holing the county convention delegates on the unit rule proposition.

George B. Christin, Jr., secretary of the Toledo state convention, prepared the resolutions, which contained merely this simple endorsement of the governr

"We endorse th administration of Governor Harmon as our chief executive and favor him as Ohio's choice for the Derocratic nomination for president"

It had been persistently rumored that the endorsement of the unit rule would also be among the resolutions, and that a draft containing it had been made, but this was stoutly denied by Martin J. Burke, chairman of the central committee.

The following tate convention delegates, all pledged to support Harmon for the presidency, were elected by ballot:

To Support Harmon.

Thomas A. Gruber, P. J. Monahan, George B. Scofield, Arthur W. Bryant, N. E. Arnod, Frank L. Spicer, O. S. Anthony, Martin J. Burke and John Fellmeth.

The alternates are J. Wilbur Jacoby, Frank Drake, W J. Seiter, John M. Himmeger M. B. Chase, P. Frank Foreman, Caleb H. Norris, Thomas Clary and A. H. Trout.

Sixteen names were placed in nomination for Marion county's nine delegates to the state convention, the nine receiving the highest vote on the first ballot being declared elected. The names placed in nomination were:

F L. Spicer, Thomas A Gruber, Andrew H. Trout, John Fellmeth, P. J. Monahan, John W. Himmeger, Frank Drake, George B. Scofield, Arthur W. Bryant, M B. Chase, J. Wilbur Jacoby, N. E Arnold, P. Frank Foreman, W. J. Seiter, O. S. Anthony and Martin J. Burke.

Chairman Christian, of the resolutions committee, said that the name of Judge Daniel Babst had been overlooked in the convention's resolutions, and suggested that his name be included among those endorsed. This was done by the unanimous consent of the convention.

A Brief Resolution.

Mr. Christian at this time presented the following brief resolution, which was adopted by a rising vote

"As this is the first Democratic convention since the untimely death of Hon. William T. Smith, former representative from this county, we desire to call attention to the love and esteem in which he was held by the entire citizenship of our county, and to deplore the fact that the Democratic party has lost the services of such an able, honest and conscientious champion"

Delegates to the senatorial convention at Upper Sandusky, June 18, were chosen as follows:

Frederick E. Gutaery, Martin J. Burke, Charles L LaMarche, Thomas J. Clary, George B. Christian, Jr., John W Himmeger, Burle Hune, Charles L. Justice, F. E. Moyer, Charles J Schultz, William J. Seiter, G. H Foster, George B Scofield P. H. Neidig, J W Jacoby, Frank Ritzhaupt, W. P. Moloney, Isaac S. Guthery, F C. Poppleton, Thomas A. Gruber, John Merchant and O. S. Anthony

The alternates are A L. Graham, R. S. Dombaugh, Michael J. Burke, D R Crissinger, Charles Carter, William J Wier, J. H. Raub, S. B. Creasap, George W. Cook, James Tobin, H O Toms, C. W Retterer, M A Mickley, H. E. Johnson, W. S. Spencer, J H Thibaut, John Hanley, S J Hipsher, C. G. Ritzler, Charles Carter and Charles H. Conley.

It was after 5 o'clock when adjournment was taken.

Central Committee.

The new Democratic Central committee will meet for the election of a chairman and a secretary this Saturday afternoon. Chairman Martin J Burke will retire. Among the candidates for the chairmanship of the committee are John A. Key, private secretary to Congressman Carl C. Anderson, and G. H. Foster, former probate judge and a member of the city board of review.

A sentiment expressed by D. R. Crissinger, Sunday afternoon, shows the feeling felt by many Democrats attending the convention on the unit rule

"If you wait to disrupt the Democratic party in Ohio just adopt the unit rule in the Toledo state convention," Mr Crssinger declared. He did not think it the advisable thing to do, and aided that there would not be any Democratic party in this state this fall if Harmon forced it upon the state convention.

Judge Caleb H. Norris declared that he was not in favor of the application of the unit rule, if, by the application of that rule, it meant a gag rule He declared, however, that he thought that the Ohio delegation should support Harmon in the Baltimore convention because the governor had carried the state in the preferential presidential primary.

JOINT MEETING OF COUNTY OFFICIALS

The Matter of Improving Tymochtee Creek Considered.

Two surveys for the deepening, widening and straightening of the Tymochtee creek, an improvement that will cost Marion county many thousand dollars, were submitted at a joint meeting of County Commissioners J K Leeper, Henry Seiter and A H Trout and the commissioners of Wyandot county at Upper Sandusky, Monday. The improvement extends from near Upper Sandusky to a point near Marseilles and although only six or seven miles of it will be in Marion county, it will drain more acres in Marion county than in Wyandot.

The cost of the improvement is estimated at about $60,000, the major portion of which will have to be paid by the Marion county landowners benefited

The petition for the improvement was started in Wyandot county. One of the two surveys is almost in a straight line and the other zigzags down through the territory to be drained.

SUSQUEHANNA SILK MILLS THROWN OPEN

Thousands of People Visit the Great Factory.

AN INTERESTING SIGHT FOR VISITORS FRIDAY

Plant Is in Operation in Marion Eleven Years and This Is the Second Opportunity Given the Public To Visit the Plant—What the Guests of Company Find.

The Susquehanna silk mills were thrown open for public inspection, Friday afternoon. It was the second time in the history of the local plant. A constant stream of visitors, men, women and children, passed in and out continuously between the visiting hours of 1 and 5 o'clock, at least 5,000 people availing themselvs of this unusual opportunity to see the great warping machines and looms in operation.

The local plant was located in Marion about eleven years ago, and, while it was yet in its infancy, the curiosity of the public became so keen that an opening was held, allowing hundreds of interested spectators to view the plant. Since then the mills have been greatly enlarged, and new departments added, until today it stands one of the finest of its kind in this country. During the past few years the management has had so many requests from people wishing to visit the mills that it finally decided to open its doors again to the ever curious public and give the citizens of Marion an opportunity to see how silk cloth in its raw form is made.

Fine Place to Work.

The plant is located on Mary street and the main building is 300x400 feet. This does not include the engine-room and a number of other buildings adjoining. Surrounding the mills are many handsome homes, in which reside the superintendent and other employes high in the service of the company. In fact, it is a pretty little suburban town of its own, where each day 425 men and women find congenial employment in attractive surroundings. Of these 425 people employed, 280 are women and girls. The women are found in nearly all the departments, but the heavier work is done by the men, who also operate the larger warping machines and looms. The mills are sub-divided into six departments aside from the engine-room, the machine shop and the large and commodious lunch rooms—one for the men and one for the women. Seven hundred machines are used in the different processes required before the tiny threads of silk become a fabric.

The Raw Material.

This raw material is sent to the company's dyeing works at Sunbury, Pennsylvania, where it is either dyed or printed, and from there it is sent to the markets, ready to be made up into beautiful gowns and wraps.

The local mills manufacture a number of different kinds of cloth, among them satin, liberty satin, silk poplin and satin dechine. These materials are woven either in pure white or a deep yellow, according to the kind of silk used in their manufacture. All of the silk used by the company is imported, the China or Japanese silk being white and the Italian and Swiss yellow. The company also uses twisted organzine, which consists of threads of natural silk twisted together. Egyptian and Grecian silk, which is a pale green, is sometimes used.

The cloth is woven with various backgrounds, according to the quality required. Some have silk fillings, others cotton, wool, mercerized or scappe backgrounds. The silk and fillings come to the mills in skeins in the natural colors and leave the factory in the original color which makes all the stock operated by the local mills raw in its natural condition and could even be eaten without injurious effects, as it contains no poison.

Finishing Processes.

The skeins of hair-like thread—the result of laborous work of the industrious silk worm—first go though the spooling or winding department of this great institution. Then small spools—about three inches long—with their precious wrappings, are taken into the warping department and as high as 400 or more are placed on the larger machines, where, under the skillful touch of the expert warper, these tiny threads of gold soon become a marvelous sheen. The warping consists of both American and Swiss methods. After the silk leaves the warping machines it passes to the beaming department and from there to the selvage warping machines. Then comes the hoisting department, where the work is done both by hand and machine. After it has passed through the entering department, it is submitted to the reeding process, which is also done by hand and machine. It has now passed through all the processes of the warp and is ready for the weaving. As the cloth in which the silk has been interwoven with a filling of some other raw material, which has also gone through the same process of warping, comes forth from the looms it shows what, through the industry and invention of man, can come from the labors of so tiny and insignificant a thing as a worm.

From the looms the cloth is taken to the shipping department where it is neatly folded into large rolls ready to be shipped to the dye works, where it is dyed of printed according to the demand. There it is given the beautiful gloss which is seen on the silks and satins in the stores.

THE ANNUAL ALUMNI BANQUET AT PROSPECT

Affair Given in the Knights of Pythias Hall.

Prospect, O., May 25.—[Special.]—The annual alumni banquet of the Prospect high school was held in the Knights of Pythias hall, Friday evening, and was attended by about 125 members and their friends. The hall was prettily decorated in the senior colors of royal purple and old gold.

After a short business session the welcome address was made by the president of the association, Mrs. C. F. Hurr. The response from the class of 1912 was made by George Wolfley, one of the graduates. An orchestra from Marion, screened behind a bank of ferns, furnished music throughout the evening, which was spent socially.

A luncheon was served in the banquet hall, the table decorations being bouquets of yellow and purple iris.

A number of visitors were in attendance from out of town.

Petition Is Dismissed.

After viewing the proposed Fatzler ditch in Pleasant township, the county commissioners, Friday, dismissed the petition. The petitioners decided to build the ditch at their own expenses, thus doing away with all the delay if it went the usual routine. They figured that the ditch would not cost them any more if they did the work themselves, and it was announced by the commissioners that the petitioners will construct the ditch.

MARION PRODUCT IS GIVEN OFFICIAL TEST

Marion-Osgood Dredge Meets Every Requirement.

GOVERNMENT CRAFT OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

Is To Be Used on the Knoxville Division of the Tennessee River. A Demonstration of the Dredge Is Made Under the Supervision of J. K. Howe, Representing Company.

The new government craft, "Tellico," the machinery and dredge equipment of which were installed by the Marion-Osgood company, was recently given a tryout and official test in the Tennessee river near Knoxville, and met every requirement of the government.

The machinery and dredging equipment of the big dredge are declared by government officials to be the finest ever placed on a dredge for the Knoxville division of the Tennessee river.

The test was conducted by Major Burgess, of the United States Engineering department, with headquarters in Nashville; Captain R. B. Thatcher, commanding the Tennessee river improvement fleet; Captain R. C. Moore, of the United Engineering corps at Chattanooga; Captain N. W. Bowden, of the engineering force at Watts Bar, Tennessee, and W. G. Blanton, of the French Broad river fleet.

The demonstration was made under the supervision of J. K. Howe, of Marion, consulting engineer for the Marion-Osgood company.

The "Tellico" was constructed in the government boat yards in Nashville, under the personal direction of Superintendent W. E. Baker, of the Marion-Osgood company. A large force of carpenters and shipbuilders worked on it for months. It was built at a cost of $30,000, and is as finely finished as any of the passenger steamers plying the Mississippi and other navigable rivers of the country.

It is non-propelling and double-decked, with commodious quarters for the operatives.

Newspaper clippings received from Knoxville give glowing descriptions of the official test and demonstration, many people being eye-witnesses.

The big new dredge, in which the local builders take much pride, is equipped with a fifty horsepower engine, and a one and one-half yard dipper for hoisting deposits from the river. It will be a notable improvement to the Tennessee river fleet and will greatly facilitate the completion of the government work along this stream.

With a dipper capacity of one and one-half yards, a maximum depth of fourteen feet and a minimum depth of three feet, the dredge is capable of handling rock, hard gravel and earth with perfect ease.

Mr. Howe, the consulting engineer for the Marion-Osgood company, has the distinction of having built the famous old government dredge, Kwasind, which was finished and went into service in 1893 and, with the exception of a few minor repairs, is declared by government officials to be in excellent condition.

The one-piece gown is very much preferred for all formal daytime functions to the tailored coat and suit.

Even the colonel will admit that mighty few people are able to fish with their finger a red cherry out of the bottom of the glass from which they drank their milk. It's so seldom served that way.

The only thing Colonel Roosevelt can see to justify the existence of the Taft family, past or present, is that the president's father, at one time, thought the third-term plan might not be wholly a bad one.

Despite the fact that the physicians, who examined former Banker Morse, might have been somewhat careless, there are few of us who, down in our hearts, are grieved that he didn't die to justify the diagnosis of his case.

Even the Hon. Mr. Fairbanks is liable to smile when he reads what Dr. Lyman Abbott has to say about Colonel Roosevelt's drinking milk to excess.

A Los Angeles millionaire, arrested and jailed ten days for speeding, recommends a jail as superior to a sanatorium for a rest cure. Still, it's hardly probable that the county will be compelled to build an addition to the local bastile, in the near future, to accommodate the rush as a result of this recommendation.

Something must be the matter wit Colonel Harvey. He is appealing to the people to help him save the country. The colonel must be losing confidence in himself.

One might judge from an editorial utterance by the Ohio State Journal, Monday, that the announcement that Boss Karshner had retired from politics was absolutely the first intimation it had had that Franklin county had been suffering from boss rule. Still it's possible that the State Journal may have had knowledge and concealed it. It is well to remember that Boss Karshner was State Boss Walter Brown's Columbus lieutenant, and the Journal was playing in with the Roosevelt crowd. True, it maintained a sort of an on-the-fence position till a day or two before the primaries; then, when it thought the psychological moment had arrived to accomplish the result desired, flopped oft into the Roosevelt camp

It is developed that the public did the innocent bystander act in the recent anthracite dispute. The price is to be raised to make good the increase in wages granted the miners.

The reason why President Taft didn't make Colonel Roosevelt a major general of cavalry, at the colonel's request, and send him into Mexico in anticipation of trouble with Japan, is said to have been that there wasn't any danger of trouble with Japan and he couldn't legally make the colonel a major general Naturally that would arouse Mr Roosevelt's ire. The colonel has no use for a man that would let anything like a little legality stand between friends.

The greatest fault to be found with the machines designed to record seismatic disturbances is that they are forever keeping the scientists busy hunting around to locate the earthquakes the machines record.

A Texas scientist holds that rock and rye will not cure a cold, but he misses his guess if he hopes that the Texans will ever permit a cold scientific edict to stand for a second in the light of long years of practice.

To revert. Mr. George W Perkins admits that he has contributed very largely to Mr. Roosevelt's campaign. All right. He also claims that he contributed very largely to Mr. Roosevelt's campaign in 1904 All right, again. He says that he also contributed, upon Mr. Roosevelt's request, to Mr Taft's campaign in 1908. Agreed. But let's analyze the proposition. If he aided Mr. Roosevelt in 1904, he must have been satisfied with Mr. Roosevelt's administration if he was willing to invest on his Taft tip in 1908. If he is now opposed to Taft and financing Roosevelt again he must be displeased with what Mr. Taft has done to curb his trusts, and not afraid of what Mr Roosevelt will do, knowing what he did not do when in power before. And still we are told that Mr. Taft is backed by "the interests"

In case Colonel Roosevelt should be nominated and elected, the least he can do is to make that great friend and lover of the plain people, the Hon. George W. Perkins, prime minister.

Possibly we expect too much, but wouldn't it be glorious were it possible for Church street, having been resurfaced, to escape for a week or two, at least, the pick of the fellow seeking to make a gas, water, or sewer connection?

THE PROPOSITION MOST DANGEROUS

We note that the "Con Con." has approved a proposal which purposes to amend the constitution so as to provide that the defendant shall have the right to demand trial by jury in the matter of an application for an injunction in labor disputes. This is a very dangerous proposition. In labor disputes, injunctions are only sought to prevent the doing of that already forbidden by law For instance, presuming that a part of the employes of a factory have gone on strike, and the strikers want those who remained at work to join them, and surround the factory threatening violence if they fail to comply with their demand. The law of the land is that a man shall be free to labor or to refuse to labor upon such terms as he pleases, subject to the regulations made under the police power of the government looking to the protection of his rights. Under present conditions, application may be made for an injunction restraining interference with the property of the factory or with those in its employ Such interference is already a violation of the law and the injunction is practically but the service of notice and warning under added penalty of contempt of court. The court grants a temporary injunction under which no legal rights are lost and the matter goes to a formal hearing Under the proposed law it would be necessary to have a jury pass upon the necessity of an injunction, a jury drawn from the people involved in the controversy and under awe of threats of the lawless.

Oftentimes a strike occurs at a plant employing thousands of men. In the heat of passion some hotheads urge the destruction of the plant. Suppose this is done while a jury wrestles with the question of whether certain men should be enjoined from burning or blowing up the great shops. It might be as it has often been, that the strike was the result of misunderstanding or based upon a trifling disagreement yielding readily in a few days to adjustment. But if the plant is destroyed the thousands of men face loss of employment for months, removal to new homes, hunger and wretchedness, their employers are involved in ruin and the city suffers in loss of industry and citizenship. To call for a jury, for instance in a mining settlement, during a strike, is in effect to deny the right of injunction and the surrender of personal and property rights to the disposition of the mob

DELEGATES-AT-LARGE FROM BUCKEYE STATE

The Cleveland Leader fairly fumes as it proclaims to its readers that there "will not be an instructed Taft delegate-at-large from Ohio." There may, and there may not be. The entire matter depends upon the make-up of the Ohio Republican state convention If a majority of the delegates chosen are Taft delegates, elected as such, just as were the five Taft delegates chosen in Marion county, the six delegates-at-large from Ohio will be for Taft. Here in Marion county the seven Taft candidates for delegates to the state convention received the support of 1,170 voters of the county, while the seven Roosevelt candidates secured but 906 votes, which shows, if it shows anything, that the sentiment of Marion county is for Taft The five delegates were chosen as Taft delegates, and they will vote as such If there were anything in the Leader's line of reasoning, it would bind the two Roosevelt delegates chosen to join with the five Taft delegates to vote for Taft delegates-at-large to the Chicago convention. But there isn't. It is simply a part of the Roosevelt bluff, and overflows with inconsistency.

The Leader may fret and fume to the utmost, but it will not affect the result. As we said before, if the Taft delegates chosen to the state convention are in the majority, the six delegates-at-large will be for Taft If the Roosevelt delegates control the state convention, the delegates-at-large will be for Roosevelt

The majority will rule, as it should.

Since it has been determined that Church street is to be resurfaced, we may expect soon to meet a number of gentlemanly agents, each of whom will point out to us the immense superiority of his paving material over that of any of his competitors.

The German owners of the Imperator rather strongly intimate that the greatest vessel of all maritime history is not to be utilized as an ice-crusher.

The Ohio State Journal paragrapher holds that it is much better for a person to imagine that he can write poetry than that he can sing, but we are willing to wager our last year's straw hats that his editor-in-chief will not agree with him, assuming, of course that his editor-in-chief is the particular unfortunate on the Journal staff that passes on the poetic contributions

So the colonel proposes to be in atendance at the Chicago convention? Maybe he has decided to do that chairmanship job himself.

THE QUESTION OF DOMESTIC SERVICE

If the cooking schools, which now seem to be so popular, will only assert the dignity of domestic labor and popularize it as an occupation they will have done more for the race than many of the leading universities. Everybody knows that it is almost impossible to secure an adequate supply of intelligent, satisfactory "household help," and yet there are thousands of young women, with a genius for culinary pursuits, who are working for a pittance in shops, factories and offices, miserably housed, taxed desperately to make ends meet, while good homes, good food and good wages await them eagerly in the ranks of domestic laborers.

The reasons for this state of affairs are not hard to find

The greatest objection to domestic service is a sentimental one, and is revealed in the term just used. In a republic like this, where every man is a sovereign and "Jack is as good as his master," and will not admit that he has a master, there is a deep-seated aversion to the word "servant" as one defining more than social and money inequality, and the terms "servant," and "hired girl," have come to be terms of reproach.

Other objections to what is called abroad "going out to service," relate to the relations between the employer and the employed. As stated by an observant woman, who has had experience in both capacities, they may thus be briefly summarized:

"Housework, so called, is not popular as an avocation

"First—Because it is held in the public estimation to be menial

"Second—Because the person so employed has no defined hours of labor and consequently no defined hours of leisure.

"Third—She is too often under the direction of not only one, but of every member of the family.

"Fourth—She is not treated as a member of the family and yet is under a restriction and chaperonage not even extended to the daughters of the employer.

"Fifth—She is lonely, eating her meals in solitude, expected to be the first of the household to exercise self-denial, seldom having a room, where she may entertain her friends free from intrusion or from calls for unexpected and unreasonable service."

This seems to be a reasonable and expert view of the matter Doubtless there are many facets to the question if revolved in the light of personal experience. We have expressed the hope that the cooking schools can help solve the problems. The difficulty is that they do not reach the persons most to be benefited. There is no doubt that a race of intelligent, trained household workers could easily bring about a reform of the conditions to which the lady quoted above adverts. It is shown that there is not objection upon the part of women generally to kitchen work itself, for the hotels and restaurants have little difficulty in securing the help they need. The objection, then, applies only to house "servants" and only to women and girls, for there is no lack of available grooms, waiters, butlers, etc, to those who can indulge in such luxury And these objections, as our friend kindly suggests, can best be met by the adoption of a few reasonable rules.

"First," she suggests, "let it be clearly understood between employer and maid that the relationship between them is primarily a business one Let there be a clear understanding as to the nature and character of work to be performed and let that work be systematized so far as possible with fixed hours of employment with extra pay for overtime and for additional burdens Next see that the maid is provided with a comfortable well-furnished room, that she has a place, outside her kitchen, where she may receive her friends and entertain them without subjecting them to the curiosity or scrutiny of the members of the household. Respect the privacy of the maid in her hours of leisure and do not attempt to exercise parental supervision or authority unless you are prepared to extend also parental love and consideration Insist upon decorum and character, of course, but minister to the maid's self-respect and avoid suspicion. Do not expect to secure a cook and nurse girl for the wage of one See that the maid is provided with good, but not too heavy, reading, with opportunity to keep herself and belongings clean, that she has proper utensils for her work and the conveniences you would have yourself if you were to do the work and were able to afford them A cool kitchen, a cool bedroom in summer, a warm room in winter with an easy chair and a good light are better as a helpkeeper than the reversion of many gowns and a lot of 'purely useful' gifts at Christmas"

All of which seems like good sense

Anyway here is a progressive issue which is more worth discussion than many of the "issues" which are rending great parties and making enemies of old-time friends

We will welcome light on the subject.

I. AND R. IN OREGON.

Nothing is better known in human nature than that responsibility is the means of inculcating efficiency If a man—or a body of men—is to do a thing he must have the right and duty to decide and act on his own responsibility and take the consequences. As soon as this fails, action ceases, and what was to be the helpful concurrence of strong individuality ceases, and in its place is simply registering work in which there is neither risk nor interest. Thus it must be plain that under the operation of this method, as we see it from year to year in Oregon, the people have withdrawn from the system of public affairs the help of deliberation on the part of experienced men and put in its place the capricious exercise of decision by the counting of noses among a mass that has neither the time nor the preparation for he work to be done. Another thing equally illustrated here is that nothing of this kind, once started, stays within its original compass. I has been the same with the recall Instead of being a means of checking incompetence and dishonesty in office, it has come to be a means of gratifying personal and political vengeance.

Here are twenty-two of the forty-two measures which the Oregon voters will "settle" at the coming count of the ballots in November. We quote from the Portland Oregonian:

New constitution, abolishing the present state and county government and substituting an entirely new form, with governor and cabinet, one legislative body, and state and county business managers.

Single tax, state.

Single tax, county.

Abolishing single tax, state.

Two other tax measures.

Public service commission.

Road bonds, $10,000,000 in ten years at rate of $1,000,000 a year.

Five other road bills, proposed by "harmony" commission.

Two opposing road bills, proposed by state grange.

Creating system to revise judicial system.

Creating commission to revise tax laws.

Abolishing capital punishment.

Minimum wage for all industries.

Eight-hour day.

Workmen's compensation act, proposed by employers.

Workmen's compensation act, proposed by state Federation of labor.

As the Oregonian says, one president or another, one political party or another, one man or another for offices in state, county or city might be chosen and the onward sweep of events would not be altered or the fortunes of the average citizen affected But here are problems deeply concerning social and political welfare, a single mistake in which will be unfortunate for all, while a series of mistakes will be disastrous. Yet Oregon doubtless points to itself still as an example of the latest exposition of wisdom. If it is not government gone mad there is no truth in indications.—Indianapolis News.

C., D. & M. Improvement.

Eli West, receiver for the C., D & M., and Attorney Harry West, of Columbus, were in Marion a short time, Friday. A number of improvements are to be made in this city, this summer, and the preliminary work will be begun at an early date. Mr West's visit here was preparatory to the beginning of this work.

THE SUN ARCTURUS IS VISIBLE AT THIS TIME

The Longest Day of the Year Will Be June 21.

THE SUN WILL REACH ITS HIGHEST POINT

Professor Eric Doolittle, of the University of Pennsylvania, Gives a Review of the Heavens for June. Students Will Find Much Interest in the Heavens.

During this, the first of our summer months, the early evening heavens will be found filled with objects of interest. First to attract our attention will probably be Arcturus, that very old and inconceivably brilliant sun, which now shines out exactly south of the zenith. And next we notice three bright stars which stretch entirely across the southern sky at nearly equal distances from one another, all of which are very brilliant objects, though far less bright than the great Arcturus above them. These are the white stars Spica and Regulus, and the red star Antares, the last being the most brilliant star of the wonderful summer group of the Scorpion, which is so conspicuous in the southern sky throughout the month of August.

In the northeast we see the beautiful Northern Cross, whose greatest length now lies almost along the ground; above this is the blue Vega, while below it, exactly in the east, there are rising the three brightest stars of the beautiful group known as the Eagle. All of these stars sank from our evening sky last December, but throughout the entire summer and fall they will remain with us, becoming very striking groups when with the advancing seasons they mount higher in the heavens.

But the most striking and interesting object of all is doubtless the beautiful Jupiter, which has now well entered the evening sky and pours out its steady, golden radiance in the southeast Even without a telescope this is a beautiful object, for it is by far the brightest heavenly body now in the sky, and its deep golden color can easily be recognized, especially if the observer compares it with the white or blue stars Spica, Vega and Regulus. It is now retrograding, or moving westward among the stars, and during the month will pass to the west of Antares. This slow, westward movement will continue until August 3, by which time it will have almost reached the stars at A, Figure 1; it will then turn eastward and again take up its twelve-year journey around the Celestian Sphere.

This whole southeastern region of the heavens is a most interesting one. The bright Antares itself, one of the most interesting of the stars, is mentioned in the very earliest records which we possess. To the Persians of 3000 B. C. it was one of the four "Royal Stars," while in Egyptian astronomy, seven centuries earlier, it is a goddess heralding sunrise at the time of the autumnal equinox, for, fifty-six centuries ago, the autumnal equinox was near this star. The oldest of the Grecian temples—beside many later ones—are orientated to Antares.

Antares, which is believed to be a very old sun, has a faint, emerald-green companion very near it, and this is probably revolving about the larger star. Eighteen hundred years ago this star was fainter than the star at B, Figure 1. It is now pouring out four times as much light as it did then; but whether its period of greatest brightness has yet been reached we do not know.

The stars A, C and D are all interesting double-sun systems, the first and last being easily seen with a small telescope. The star at B is remarkable for its greenish color. Finally, much farther east, in the constellation Ophiuchus, there is a little double star at E which is of very great interest, because the two suns in their motion about one another seem to be disturbed by the pull of an unseen body. It may be remembered that the massive attendants of Sirius and Procyon were discovered in this way many years before they were ever seen in the telescope. The body in the stellar system at E may be entirely dark, or it may be too faint to be visible in any of the instruments which we possess at present. It has been many times searched for without success.

The Occultation of Antares.

An even of great interest this month is the passage of the moon between us and the bright star Antares. This will occur on June 26, the star disappearing, as viewed from Washington, at the point A on the east edge of the moon—Figure 2—at sixteen minutes after 11 o'clock, eastern standard time, and reappearing at the point B at thirty minutes past midnight Antares will thus remain hidden for one hour and fourteen minutes, as seen from Washington.

The reader should not fail to observe this most interesting phenomenon. The observation will be much more satisfactory if made with a small telescope or a pair of opera-glasses; but even with the naked eye the sudden disappearance of the bright star as the moon passes over it will be very striking. As the moon is three days from full and as its eastern edge is consequently in darkness, the star will be seen to disappear an appreciable distance away from the bright edge of the moon itself—that is, it will be hidden before the moon has apparently quite reached it. The observer will notice that it will disappear instantaneous-darkness, the star will be seen to dissible if there were any air on our satellite, for in that case the disappearance would be a gradual fading away.

Unfortunately, it is not possible to state for each observer the exact time when he occultation will be seen by him, for this differs very greatly for different parts of the earth. That this must be so is evident from Figure 3, where the cylinder of light enveloping the moon is that made by the light of the star itself, and clearly to any one inside of this cylinder the star will be wholly invisible As the moon is far below the earth's equator on June 26, the area ab which the cylinder cuts from the earth is a very elongated one. If it is remembered that not only is the moon in motion, but that the earth is also turning rapidly, it is evident that a quite long computation must be made to determine the exact instant when any point of the earth will enter or leave the shaded area

The best plan in observing the occultation will be for the observer to notice the relative positions of the moon and the star several times during the evening. He will notice that the former is moving steadily eastward an amount equal to its own diameter in each hour, and when it has approached the star quite closely the uninterrupted watching can begin. The bodies will then be high in the heavens, in excellent position for the observation.

The Planets in June.

Mercury, which reached its greatest western elongation on May 13, passes to the east of the sun on June 17, but as it will not reach its greatest eastern elongation until July 25, it will not be visible this month.

Venus is also too near the sun to be seen; by the end of the month it is almost in line with the sun, though it will not pass to the west of that body and enter the evening sky until July 5.

Mars is still conspicuous in the west, its rapid eastward motion during this month carrying it entirely across Cancer and into the constellation, Leo. On June 9 it will pass exactly north of the star at F, Figure 1, and by observing the two bodies in a small telescope the eastward motion may be clearly detected in the course of only a few hours. It is of interest to notice that the earliest observation of Jupiter of which we have any record is connected with this star It is stated that on September 4, B. C., 240, the planet was seen from Egypt to occult this star but as the observation was a naked eye one the supposed occultation was probably only a very near approach

Mars is still rapidly drawing away from the earth; its distance from us is increased from 194,000,000 to 212,000,000 of miles during the month. Since when nearest it is but 36,000 000 of miles distant, it is now in extremely unfavorable position for observation In a small telescope it appears as a reddish disc, but very slightly more than one-half full

Jupiter, the most brilliant and interesting object now in the sky, will be at once recognized as it shines well up from the ground in the southeast, in the eastern border of the constellation of the Scorpion.

Saturn is slowly withdrawing from the rays of the sun in the morning sky, and may be detected rising a little north of the east point about an hour before sunrise.

Uranus and Neptune are not in favorable position for observation during the month.

On June 21, at two hours seventeen minutes p m., eastern standard time, the sun reaches the summer solstice, or highest point of its path in the heavens, and this is therefore the longest day of the present year.

Eric Doolittle.

JOHN WATERS SHOOTS HIMSELF IN TEMPLE

Wife Finds Him Dead on Cot in a Work Car.

HEARS A SHOT AND RUSHES TO HUSBAND

Man Is Despondent and Out of Work—Widow Believes the Shooting Is Accidental—Gun Found Some Distance from the Body. The Funeral Arrangements.

Prospect, O., May 24.—[Special.]—Hearing a shot fired, Thursday afternoon about 4 o'clock, Mrs. John Walters, of this place, rushed to her husband's work car in the rear of their home and found him dead on a cot, with a bullet hole in his right temple.

Mystery surrounds the shooting. Although Mrs. Waters believes that it was accidental, every indication points to the shooting being done with suicidal intent.

Waters, who was fifty-four years old and a ditcher, had been despondent and out of work for some time. For a week or more he had complained of pains in the back part of his head, and only Wednesday the rifle with which he shot himself was taken away from him and put away.

How Waters managed to shoot himself with the sixteen shot twenty-two caliber repeating rifle is not known. When his body was found it was lying on the cot, as stated, and the gun was on the floor, a distance of five feet away.

The work car, in which Waters shot himself, was used by him and his oldest son in ditch work. When they were employed in the country they cooked and slept in it.

Coroner W. H. Hinklin went to Prospect, this morning, to view the remains.

The dead man was the father of eight children. He had lived in and around Prospect for a number of years. His children are: Mrs. Iva Alsbaugh, of Waldo; Mrs. Pearl Miller, residing south of here; William, Robert, Bert, Emma, Flossie and Marion, who lived at home.

The funeral services will be held at the Baptist church at this place, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Key, private secretary to Congressman Carl C. Anderson, estimates the number of pensioners in this county at approximately 600, all of whom will be benefited by the new measure, which gives each an average increase of $51.

During the first three years of its operations the veterans of the United States will receive increased payments averaging $22,000,000.

Application blanks will be forwarded to every soldier in the Thirteenth district. Pension increases will date from the date of their application

TALK ON RELIGION.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for June 2 Is "Hypocrisy and Sincerity." Matthew 6:1-18.

Traveling up the grand canal in China one day in a public boat, I was interested in the attitude of the wealthy Chinese aboard toward a beggar on the banks. The boy ran crying most plaintively and stopping frequently to beat his head on the earth in supplication. He was a professional beggar, and all about us were the really starving Chinese, but the gentry on the boat took up a collection for the beggar. When it was pointed out that he was only a professional mendicant, they smiled and said, "Yes, but we'll acquire merit just the same." They thought to earn the reputation for liberality which befitted their dignity, and also as Buddhists to store up merit for themselves in heaven.

This is the heathen type of philanthropy, although it is not confined exclusively to heathen lands. Good deds are done ostentatiously and indiscriminately. They are the earliest forms of the modern system of press-agenting, or self-advertising. The practice existed in the time of Jesus, and in this searching lesson He lays bare the sham and hypocrisy and futility of it all.

An Untagged Request.

It was counted so unusual as to be important news when, a few weeks ago, Lord Lister, the great Englishman, died leaving a fortune to charity with the specific injunction that his own name should not be attached to any of the forms that his benevolence should take. This implied a keen rebuke to the men who insist upon purchasing post-mortem reputation for themselves by the money which they are unable to take with them beyond the grave. The whole system of endowing philanthropies that shall bear the donor's name would seem to come in for the condemnation of the fearless Christ.

His bold teachings run counter to the modern tendency of the official heads of His church to cultivate and magnify the "big giver." There is a perceptible trend in Christian work toward the exaltation of the person who can give large sums for religion. Some religious institutions have come to depend almost wholly upon such. Even the denominational mission boards are following the trend of regarding the person who can give large sums as indispensable to their work. Some day, and that soon, there will be a great awakening to the futility and folly of building the work of Christ upon the money bags of a few rich men. Already certain noble institutions are manifestly imperilled by this

Who Are the Philanthropists?

The big word philanthropist—which merely means "a lover of men"—is being monopolized, in the common opinion, by men with large bank acounts. It is assumed that the philantropist is the one who endows a library, a hospital, a college, or a research fund; and it is taken for granted that the donor's name should accompany the benefaction.

This notion needs to be directly challenged The real philanthropy of the world is to be found in the good deeds of the plain people, who without ostentation or posing, play the part of brothers to one another in neccessity. There is more philanthropy among the hosts of the world's toilers who have naught to spare yet all to share, than in all the gilded lists that are kept in card catalogs in Wall Street banks Let us open our eyes to this clear and simple fact, tnd remember its bearings and out reaching The hope for human helpfulness, and the hope of all Christian benevolences, lies ultimately with the great masses of ordinary people, who never think to exact a return in advertising or recognition for what they do out of simple brother love, which is the Anglo-Saxon for philanthropy.

The War of Viewpoints.

Two tendecies have always been at war in society and in the breast of man Human nature naturally cares for reputation Everybody, from the child in his first knickerbockers to the old lady with a new bonnet is solicitous about what other persons may think of him. That is instinctive Reputation has always seemed to man supremely desirable

On the other hand, God's interest is in character He is zealous that His children should be, rather than that they should seem. All His laws tend toward inner worth, rather than outward show Repeatedly, through all His revelations to humanity, He has made clear that He judges by the invisible standards of soul measurement His judgments by no means coincide with the biographies in books and newspapers, or with the common opinion of one's neighbors In this contest between the tendency to exalt reputation and the counter tendency to exalt character, Jesus places Himself, with all the force of His eloquence, upon the side of a life that is lived in its hidden centers only for the eye of God.

The Strength of the Secret Life.

Publicity is coming to be increasingly valued in all departments of our modern civilization yet it has its grave dangers Everybody who associates with public workers knows how lecturers and evangelists and secretaries scan eagerly the morning papers, not for news of the world, but for the mention of themselves and their work A strong current in our modern time sets toward the exaltation of the printed opinion as a measure of a man's success. We have even known men—and this point is touched upon by Jesus—to send their prayers for publication in the newspapers—prideful ever-polished sentences.

Only a vigorous secret life, lived in communion with God can preserve one steady and true in public activity. Said a younk Korean missionary, "The only way a missionary can keep safe amid the peculiar temptations of his life is by guarding his secret communion with Christ."

TALK ON RELIGION. 3.

Wednesday.

Many will recall the figure of Drumsheugh, in "The Bonnie Briar Bush," who had a reputation for meanness and unsentimentality, but who, it was revealed at the end, had scimped and saved in loyalty to a great romance—that the son of his boyhood sweetheart, who had married a shiftless man, might have the education that the mother coveted. That is an oaken type of character. It was strong enough to seem in the eyes of men worse than I was in the knowledge of God. It could smile with a breaking heart and haggle for pennies in the service of a noble ideal. The stanches type of religious character is that which has its deepest relationships a confidential matter between itself and God.

The Men With a Prayer Wheel.

From Darjeeling I brought home a couple of Thibetan prayer wheels, such as I had seen the monks and mendicants twirling as they went sight-seeing about the town. Some of them carried very much bigger prayer wheels than I cared to bring home, but I could not see that their interest in the process was any less mechanical than that of other men who twirled smaller cylinders, containing fewer prayers stamped on strips of paper. This Thibetan practice carried mechanica praying to its limit. The belief is that every time the cylinder revolves the prayer is said. Up in the mountains of Thibet it is reported that huge prayer wheels are affixed to water wheels.

All is for outward seeming; there is no relation between the prayer wheel and the life.

In like manner one may see in Darjeeling, as well as throughout all of India, Hindu "holy men," whose holiness chiefly consists in their extraordinary appearance of long hair and beards, and ash-smeared faces and bodies. They are the antithesis of the praying man described by Jesus, who shut himself up from the eyes of men, that he might pray to the Father who seeth in secret.

Let it be said, as strongly and as often as possible, that the religion that exists for the eyes of men is heathenish and unchristian. It runs squarely against its teaching and the mind of Christ. True Christianity has its highest and holiest hours in the prayer closet. It is not concerned with men's praise, but with God's favor. Thus, to be a "leading layman" or conspicuous Christian worker, exposes one to all the perils of man-serving heathenish religiosity.

Praying the Big Prayers.

This great lesson closes with the model prayer which we commonly call the Lord's prayer. Jesus meant it for a model. It in itself is not a sufficient petition for the Christian's life, because of its impersonal character; but it does show how all praying should include the big petitions. It recognizes that God is on the throne even more than it recognizes that the petitioner is on his knees. Its first supplication is for the glory of Jehovah; the second is for the coming of His kingdom; the third is for the doing of His will. What a sweep and a horizon and an atmosphere we have there! Anybody who lives in the spirit of the Lord's Prayer is lifted up out of petty self-interest There is one petition for the things that keep a man in life, and then it is followed by the great prayer for the spirit of forgiveness, which is greater than bread. After that comes the cry for deliverance from sin's thraldom.

By this prayer, as by all His utterances, was not the Master trying to teach His disciples to live worthy of the kingdom of which they were members? He sought for them sincerity and unselfishness of character, and He wanted them to become as indifferent to the opinion of the world as He himself was.

HEAVY STORM PASSES OVER CITY TUESDAY

Some Damage Is Done by the Accompanying Gale.

A storm entailing some little damage passed over Marion and Marion county at noon Tuesday. In this city, the rain lessened the heat prevailing during the morning, and was a welcome relief to the people. To the farmers it came when it was most needed The ground had been hardened by the heat of the past few days, and the outlook for the crops, just now starting, was not good. Fortunately, the rain covered a very large part of the county.

The wind accompanying the rain did considerable damage here. On north State street a big limb was thrown over the trolley wires, and as a result the local street-car service was tied up about forty minutes. Limbs were torn from trees all over the city, and in some cases pedestrians hurrying to their homes narrowly escaped injury from the falling limbs The Marion County Telephone company suffered somewhat as a result of the storm, many of the phones being put out of working order

It is possible for one woman to pass another on the street without seeing her, but she can't pass a milliner's window without looking in.

A SUIT TO FORECLOSE $500,000 MORTGAGE

C., M. & B. Railway Company Is the Defendant.

OLIN W. PRICE GETS DECREE OF DIVORCE

Abel & Coonrod Are Sued for Damages in the Sum of $10,000 Because of the Killing of Morton E. Drake in Saloon—Some Common Pleas Court News Notes.

A suit to foreclose on an indenture of mortgage or deed of trust for $500,000 against the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railway company was begun in the court of common pleas, Tuesday morning, by the Troy Trust company, of Troy, New York, as trustee.

The petition, which covers many typewritten pages, was prepared by General E. B. Finley, of Bucyrus, and mailed to County Clerk W. W. Klinefelter for immediate filing.

The petitioner sets up that the Cincinnati Trust company, of Cincinnati, was removed as a trustee by the holders of three-quarters in amount of the outstanding bonds secured by the indenture of mortgage or deed of trust, March 28, 1912.

September 1, 1909, a semi-annual installment of interest on the $500,000 bonds amounting to $12,500 became due and was not paid, and since then, it is alleged, like default has been made with respect to semi-annual installments accruing.

The Troy Trust company demands that the amount due and unpaid on the bonds for principal and interest, with the names of the lawful holders of the bonds be ascertained; that an accounting be taken of all the properties; that the indenture of mortgage be foreclosed; that pending the suit the court appoint a receiver of the property and that a writ of injunction be issued restraining the transferring of any of the property, and that the Cincinnati Trust company, which is named one of the defendants, be required to render a just, full and true account of its acts and doings as trustee.

On the ground of gross neglect of duty, Olin W. Price was granted a decree of divorce from Wilhelmina M. Price by Judge Scofield Tuesday morning.

The Prices were married in this city, November 2, 1911. In his testimony to the court, Price swore that his wife had been unfaithful to her marriage vows and claimed that he was compelled to leave her last March on account of disgraceful conduct with other men.

In the error proceeding of Bert Briggs, who was fined $500 by Mayor John G. Seiter for violation of the Rose local-option law, Judge Scofield, Tuesday, affirmed the judgment of the lower court.

David S. Bracey, who was prosecuted by the Marion County Humane society for non-support, fined $25 and sentenced to serve six months in the Dayton workhouse, will now be given his liberty by a decision of Judge W. E. Scofield, Tuesday.

Fred W. Warner, representing Bracey, took his case to the court of common pleas on error and Judge Scofield reversed the justice's judgment, finding error in the rejection of testimony wholly competent and material in behalf of Bracey.

Bracey was sentenced and fined December 7, 1911.

Monday afternoon, Judge Scofield allowed Attorney Grant E. Mouser $100 for assisting Prosecuting Attorney Charles L. Justice in the trial of Frank Phillips, who was convicted of burglary. Joseph Martin, Phillips' partner, is now in jail awaiting trial.

A suit for $10,000 damages against Samuel Nelson Abel and Charles M. Coonrod, partners doing business as Abel and Coonrod, filed by Scofield & Durfee in the court of common pleas, Tuesday morning, is a sequel to the recent killing of Morton E. Drake. Big Island township farmer, in the Palm Cafe, No. 124 east Center street

Harry E. Hedges, Abel & Coonrod's bartender, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter in causing Drake's death, but the May grand jury failed to indict him

Tuesday's action against the proprietors of the place where Drake sustained injuries which caused death was begun by Elmer E. Drake administrator of the estate of his brother, Morton E. Drake

The petition sets up that on the afternoon of April 12, at about 2 o'clock, the "defendants, servants and agents in the conduct of the business at the bar," negotiated the sale to Morton E Drake of drink, and wilfully assaulted him, giving him "a knockout blow on his jaw, breaking his teeth and fracturing his skull and causing him to bleed and fall backward on the floor unconscious, from which unconsciousness and injury he never recovered"

While in his unconscious and bleeding condition, it is further alleged, Drake was obstructing the business at the bar by lying on the floor in front of it. To avoid loss of business at the bar, it is averred, the wounded man was carried into the cold cellar, where the defendants removed his coat and "Gave him his death chill, from all of which he died in less than one day"

At the time of his death Drake, it is alleged, was forty-seven years old and was a successful farmer in Big Island township, where he was born and lived all of his life. He left a widow, Minnie Drake, aged forty-one years; two married daughters, Carrie Baker and Bessie Karns; one unmarried grown daughter, Della Drake, aged twenty years; three sons, Charles, Harry and Ralph, aged eighteen, sixteen and five years, and one baby daughter, Mildred, aged three years.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS ENJOY A FINE AFFAIR

Large Company of Members Is Entertained.

THE EAGLES CONFER DEGREE ON CANDIDATE

Frank H. Ritzhaupt Selected To Attend State Convention—Canby Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Gives a Dance Which Is Attended by Fifty Couples—Lodge Notes.

Marion Council, No. 671, Knights of Columbus, celebrated the tenth anniversary of the organization of the order and held a reception for the forty candidates initiated, Sunday, in the quarters of the lodge on the fifth floor of the Huber building, Wednesday evening. Over 250 of the members and friends of the order were present.

After the members and friends gathered in the hall, a pleasing program was opened with a selection by the orchestra. A vocal solo by Miss Marguerite Kirchner was followed by an address by Rev. Father J. M. Denning. "Looking Backward." "Looking Forward" was the subject of an address by Hon. M. B. McCarthy, of Toledo, state secretary of the order, who instituted the local council ten years ago. Following the address of Mr. McCarthy, a pleasing vocal selection was rendered by Miss Leona Gurley. After a selection by the orchestra the program closed with the song "America."

Following the program, the hall was cleared and dancing was enjoyed. The music was furnished by McNeal's five-piece orchestra. The committee in charge was composed of Messrs. D. C. Dee, G. Hogan, C. F. Hess, Julius Martin and Joseph Grundy. Following the season of dancing, a luncheon was served.

The degree was conferred on one candidate at a largely-attended meeting of the Eagles, Wednesday evening. Aside from the routine business, Frank H. Ritzhaupt was appointed delegate to the state convention to be held in Columbus from June 11 to 14. A semi-annual auditing committee composed of Medwin Lehman, Frank H. Ritzhaupt and John A. Abel was appointed. The lodge also provided a donation for the children of the Waddel Children's home for the annual outing of the young people.

The next meeting of the lodge will be held in one week.

A dance was enjoyed by Marion Legion, No. 1470, National Protective Legion, Wednesday evening. About forty-five couples were present and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed. At a meeting in two weeks, a class of candidates will be initiated. A social will be enjoyed following the business session. A very large attendance is desired at that time.

Fifty couples attended a dance given by Canby Lodge, No. 51 Knights of Pythias, Wednesday night. It was long after the midnight hour when the dancers departed for their homes. The dance was declared one of the most delightful given by the lodge in many weeks.

The second degree was conferred on two candidates at a regular meeting of Wayside Lodge, No. 864, I. O. O. F., Wednesday night, and arrangements made to confer the third degree at the regular meeting, next Thursday night.

The stockholders of the Marion Masonic Temple company held their annual meeting, Tuesday evening, in the Masonic temple and reorganized by electing the following officers:

John E. Waddell, president; Frederick E. Guthery, vice president; James A. Knapp, secretary, and Busby P. Sweney, treasurer.

A number of other matters were given attention.

The first nomination of officers was held at a regular meeting of Canby Lodge, No. 51, Knights of Pythias, Tuesday night. Next Tuesday night, the second nomination and election will be held.

COMMON PLEAS COURT.

From an authentic source, it was learned that the three sub rosa indictments returned by the May grand jury were all for the arrest of men for non-support.

The men wanted are widely scattered over the country, but the probabilities are that arrests will be made before the close of the week.

Non-support cases are becoming so numerous in this county that an effort will be made by the authorities to put a stop to the practice of fathers failing to provide for their minor children.

It was also learned that investigation of the killing of Morton E. Drake in the Palm cafe has not yet been dropped by the authorities.

In the suit of the Home Building, Savings & Loan company against E. E. Bush and others, the defendant, W. T. Owen, administrator of the estate of Harry Cope, has filed a reply to the answer to the petition. He denies each and every allegation made.

A reply setting up a general denial of the defendants' answer has been filed in the suit of the Luce Land & Development company, limited, against Fred J. Crafts and others.

PRESENCE OF MARINES MEANS GREAT SAVINGS

Yankess Land in Cuba Just at Proper Time.

AMERICAN INTERESTS PROTECTED AS RESULT

Situation Up to the Time Marines Arrive Is Considered Most Critical as Rebels Had Begun To Pillage and Burn Sugar Plantations of Americans.

Havana, May 30.—That the presence of United States marines in eastern Cuba has saved millions of dollars to American interests through putting an end to extortion and pillage, was the information brought here today by M. H. Lewis, of New York, president of the Santa Cecelia Sugar company, an American concern, representing $7,000,000 worth of investments in Oriente province. Mr. Lewis arrived from Oriente, where, he says, the situation was critical up to the time of the arrival of American troops.

Twenty thousand tons of cane and much machinery of the Lamaya Land company, another American corporation, were burned by rebels.

"I received a note from Estenoz threatening to destroy the property of our company unless we gave up cash to the rebels," Mr. Lewis said. 'We armed the employes and managed to hold off the hordes until the United States marines arrived on the scene."

The manager of the United Fruit company's interests has forwarded a protest that, despite the assertions of President Gomez to the contrary, few guns were distributed among the sugar ranches for the protection of private life and property.

Four negroes were arrested at Artemisia, province of pinar del Rio, today, charged with being conspirators against the government. Artemisia is only forty miles from Havana and the charge was made against the four that their plans included an attack upon Havana after Artemisia had been captured.

Ready To Intervene.

Key West, Fla., May 30.—The United States is now prepared to intervene in Cuba at any moment. Eight warships arrived during the night and early today and anchored in the harbor. They carry marines that will form the advance guard of the intervention forces unless President Gomez succeeds in crushing the negro revolt.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION AT BUCYRUS WEDNESDAY

Judge Daniel Babst Is Named by the Delegates.

GENERAL FINLEY IS HEARD WITH INTEREST

Pays a Tribute to the Judiciary and Nominates Judge Babst for Return to the Common Pleas Bench. Judicial Committeemen for Various Counties Are Selected.

Judge Daniel Babst, of Crestline, was unanimously nominated at Bucyrus, Wednesday, as the Democratic candidate for judge of the court of common pleas of the Second subdivision of the Tenth judicial district.

The delegates from the three counties comprising the subdivision of the district—Crawford, Marion and Wyandot—met in the courtroom of the Crawford county courthouse at 11 a. m., and at once proceeded to business, with General E B Finley, of Bucyrus, as temporary chairman, and Charles Close, of Upper Sandusky, as temporary chairman.

The appointment of committees was dispensed with, and the temporary organization was made permanent.

Upon taking up the gavel as temporary chairman, General Finley delivered a tribute to the judiciary, which reads, in part, as follows:

In placing the name of Judge Babst in nomination, General Finley said:

Finley Nominates Babst.

"I thank the committee and the convention for the honor you have paid me in selecting me for your chairman, and in view of the importance of the office of a judge of the court of common pleas and the responsibility that we intrust to him, I feel like taking the liberty of making a few remarks on that subject.

"Our forefathers provided that our government should consist of three co-ordinate branches. The legislative branch, which makes the laws; the executive branch, which carries out and enforces them, and the judicial branch, which construes the laws; and they wisely provided that the judiciary should be the greater of these; for, if the legislative branch passes laws depriving the citizen of his rights, or that are oppressive and wrong, and if the executive should attempt to enforce such laws, the judiciary always stands as a bulwark, for the protection of the rights and liberty of the people against such laws by declaring them null and void.

"I doubt if the general public appreciates how often, how very often, the judiciary has stood between it and such laws, and how often the judiciary has protected the liberties and property of the people from the enforcement of bad and unconstitutional laws. Scarcely a month passes when either the United States, or the state court, do not declare legislation to be in violation of the rights of the people and in violation of the constitution, and therefore void.

Vigilance Necessary.

"It therefore follows that the people should be more vigilant in the selection of judges of courts, whose duty is to expound the laws, than in the selection of any other public officer; for so long as you know that you have an able, just and honest judge, you know your rights will be protected

"In the selection of a judge of a court, we should keep in mind three important requisites We should ask ourselves whether he fills the following qualifications: Is he learned in the law" Is he impartial? Is he honest?

"If he possesses these three qualifications you may rely upon it that your rights and interest will be taken care of

"As to the first, if he is not learned in the law, he would be wanting in that capacity, which is a necessary requisite to a proper administration of the law If he is not impartial, he would be wholly unfit to administer the law A judge in the discharge of his duties should be absolutely fair and impartial, as between litigants, who come before him

Duties of Judge.

"He should decide the law as he understands it to be, regardless of anything else, and so long as a judge is believed to be impartial, and it is believed that he means to do right, the bar and the public will honor and respect him, even though his decisions at times do not meet with public approval On the contrary, if he should exhibit partiality, and his judgments and opinions savor of prejudice, he will lose the confidence of the people, and ought not to sit on the bench But above all, a judge should be honest, he should be honest in his dealings with parties before him and honest in every respect, in the discharge of his office duties No greater compliment can be paid to any judge than to say "He is a just judge" When he so conducts himself that the bar and the public know that he is absolutely honest, whatever errors he may commit, will be considered as errors of judgment and he will still have their full confidence and esteem

Judge Daniel Babst.

"I thing I can say, without successful contradiction, that our present judge, the Hon Daniel Babst, fills all of these conditions in every respect. No one doubts his integrity, his impartiality, or his honesty, and it goes without saying that he is learned in the law. And ever since I have been practicing at the bar, I have not known a judge more devoted to the performance of his duties than he He has never shrinked from his duties; has never declined to perform any of his duties, but has always been ready and willing to hold court wherever his services were required, and especially has it been notable that he studies his cases with great care; hunts up the law and comes to a decision from the authorities, and never renders an opinion—even upon a trifling motion—without first having fully investigated the law

"To be sure, he has not always been right. No judge ever was. But that he is honest in his belief, and endeavors to give an impartial judgment, no one doubts The best way for we lawyers to do when he decides against us, under such circumstances, is not to go out as in days of old, and 'cuss the court,' but to carry our cases up to the higher courts, if we think he is wrong."

Delegates Unanimous.

On the call for nominations, following the address of the chairman, Attorney Anson Wickham, of Bucyrus, placed the name of Judge Babst in nomination There was no chance for a call for a second to the nomination, the delegates of the three counties seconding the nomination as one man.

The rules were suspended, a rising vote called for, and Judge Babst was elected unanimously.

Following the nomination, the judge was called upon for a speech and he responded with a neat address, in which he voiced his pleasure and gratitude over the honor conferred upon him

Following the address of the nominee, the roll of counties was called and the following judicial committeemen named: Crawford, L. D Wolford and Harry Schuler; Marion, George B. Scofield and William P. P Moloney; Wyandot, Charles Close and Robert Carter.

The convention then adjourned.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS HOLD MEETING

Sessions Held at the United Brethren Church, Tuesday.

MATTER OF SECURING MONEY FOR THE WORK

Rev. R. C. Edgington Delivers an Interesting Talk—G. F. Larie Gives Some Suggestions as to the Expenditure of the Money—A Committee Appointed To Boost.

A conference of the Sunday-school workers of Marion county was held in this city Tuesday. The sessions, that morning and afternoon, were held at the United Brethren church and the session that evening were held at the First Presbyterian church.

The attendance at the opening session, Tuesday, was fair. Rev. J. W. Miles, pastor of the United Brethren church, conducted the devotional exercises. Rev. R C. Edington, pastor of the Memorial M. E. church, at Caledonia, president of the Marion County Sunday-school association, presided.

J. J. Fauser, general secretary of the Crawford County Sunday-school association, was present and gave an excellent talk on "How We Work in Our County." Rev Mr. Edington discussed "Does It Pay To Be Organized." He said that if sufficient energy were placed in the Sunday-school work that the money needed for carrying on the work would come with little trouble. He spoke much along the line of the finances of the institution, and on what it had tried to accomplish.

G. F. Larie appeared next on the program. He declared that there were too many societies in the church and this caused a detraction of interest from the Sunday-school work. He seemed to think that very little had been accomplished during the last two years in comparison with the expenditure made. Rev. F. E. Zechiel, pastor of the First Reformed church, declared that in his belief something had been accomplished. C. R. Shinn, the new general secretary of the Ohio Sunday-school work, succeeding Dr. Joseph Clark, asked to have the discussion diverted from the financial end, and to boost for greater work during the coming year.

Rev. Mr Edington appointed a committee on nominations, consisting of Mrs. A. O. Jennings, Rev. E. L. Weatherwax, Elmer Beers, G. F. Larie and Harry Stinson. He also appointed a committe on resolutions, consisting of Rev. D. N. Kelly, of the Wesley M. E. Church; Rev. C. E. Pierce, of the Central Christian church, and Rev. C. M. Rourke, of the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. C. R Edgington, pastor of the Memorial M E. church at Caledonia, was reelected president of the Marion County Sunday-school association at the afternoon session of the conference held here Tuesday. The session was held in the United Brethren church, was quite well attended and considerable interest was shown. The other officers elected when the report of the committee on nominations was read by G F Larie were:

William Stull, vice president: John H. Bain, general field secretary; Miss Sarah Myers, recording secretary and Dr. M B Newhouse, treasurer.

The following are the superintendents of the various departments Rev. E. A. Pierce, teacher training; Mrs. Etta H. Smith, home department; Mrs Ora Goorley, elementary department; Rev. D N. Kelly, secondary elementary department; Rev. M D. Bumbardner, adult department; Rev. G M. Rourke, temperance department; Rev J. F Keeran, missionary department, and Miss Lida Ringer, home visitation

During the afternoon, Mrs. A. M Hutchinson discussed "How Can the Sunday-School Help in the Temperance Work?" Her paper was very helpful to the Sunday-school workers. After music by the Otterbein quartet a round table discussion was conducted by C W Shinn, the new general secretary of Ohio succeeding Dr. Joseph Clark. Several questions were taken up and discussed with great profit The discussions for the most part related to what extent organization should prevail in the Sunday-school, and how to arouse the interest of the children in the work The afternoon session was closed with the benediction by Rev D N Kelly, pastor of the Wesley M E church

Owing to the storm, Tuesday evening, the attendance was very light Rev. C A R Edgington was in charge The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev J W Heminger. C W. Shinn gave the address of the evening, after the report of the committee on resolutions had been read by C. A Pierce, pastor of the Central Christian church

PLACES BLAME ON THE BRITISH

For Titanic Disaster and Loss of Life.

SENATOR SMITH'S SCATHING SPEECH

Scores Lack of Regulation and Inspection.

Though Pointing Out Rashness of Titanic's Commander, Senator Smith Praises Dauntless Hero of Sea Whose "Willingness To Die Is the Expiating Evidence of His Fitness To Live."

Washington, May 28.—Responsibility for the Titanic disaster and the loss of over 1,600 lives was placed upon the British board of trade today by Senator William Alden Smith, of Michigan, chairman of the committee which investigated the world's greatest marine disaster. In the most striking speech heard on the floor of the senate in a decade, Smith scored the "laxity of regulation and hasty inspection of the British board."

The Senator gave as cause contributing to the disaster:

One—The indifference to danger maintained by Captain Smith, who lost his life in the disaster.

Two—The increase of speed despite warning signals and messages of danger.

Though pointing out the rashness of Captain Smith's actions, the senator praised him as a dauntless hero of the sea whose "willingness to die was the expiating evidence of his fitness to live."

Smith first mentioned the purpose for which the Titanic investigators had been appointed and reviewed the scope of their work. Then describing the construction of the giant liner, he declared that so confident were both owner and builder that the ship represented the last word in ship building that they were eager to go upon her maiden trip. Continuing, Smith said:

Not Sufficient Tests.

"No sufficient tests were made of boilers or bulkheads or gearing or equipment and no life-saving or signal devices were tested; officers and crews were strangers to one another and passengers to both; neither was familiar with the vessel or with its implements or tools; no drill or station practice or helpful discipline disturbed the tranquillity of that voyage and when the crisis came a state of absolute unpreparedness stupefied both passengers and crew, and in their despair the ship went down carrying as needless a sacrifice of noble women and brave men as ever clustered about the judgment seat in any single moment of passing time.

"We shall leave to the honest judgment its pains-taking chastisement of the British board of trade, to whose laxity or regulation and hasty inspection the world is largely indebted for this awful fatality. Of contributing causes, there were very many. In the face of warning signals, speed was increased and messages of danger seemed to stimulate her to action rather than to persuade her to fear."

In discussing Captain Smith, the Michigan senator mingled tribute to his knowledge and bravery with criticism for his indifference to the warnings which had been given him of the presence of ice.

Praises Captain Smith.

"Pure of character, dauntless as a sailor should be," said the senator, "he walked the deck of his majestic structure as master of his keel, Titanic though she was; his indifference to danger was one of the direct and contributing causes of this unnecessary tragedy, while his own willingness to die was the expiating evidence of his own fitness to live.

"Those of us who knew him well—not in anger, but in sorrow—file one specific charge against him, overconfidence and neglect to heed the official repeated warnings of his friends; but in his horrible dismay, when his brain was afire with honest retribution, we can still see, in his manly bearing and his tender solicitude for the safety of women and little children, some traces of his lofty spirit when dark clouds lowered all about him and angry elements stripped him of his command.

"The mystery of his indifference to danger, when other and less pretentious vessels doubled their lookout or stopped their engines, finds no reasonable hypothesis in conjecture or speculation."

Vividly describing the disaster, as pictured by the survivors, Senator Smith pointed out that at the instant of contact with the ice the navigator turned the nose of the ship aside to avoid the collision, with the result that the blow was struck at a point less capable of resisting the impact than the prow of the vessel would have been. Telling of the scene which followed, Smith said:

Scenes of Rescues.

"Life-belts were finally adjusted to all and the lifeboats were cleared away, and although strangely insufficient in number, were only partially loaded and in all instances unprovided with compasses and only three of them had lamps. They were manned so badly that, in the absence of prompt relief, they would have fallen easy victims to the advancing ice floe, nearly thirty miles in width and rising 100 feet above the surface of the water. Their danger would have been as great as if they had remained on the deck of the broken hull, and if the sea had risen these toy targets, with over 700 exhausted people, would have been helplessly tossed about upon the waves without food or water.

"The lifeboats were filled so indifferently and lowered so quickly that, according to uncontradicted evidence, nearly 500 people were needlessly sacrificed to want of orderly discipline in loading the few that were provided.

"There were 1,324 passengers on the ship. The lifeboats would have easily cared for 1,176 and only contained 704, twelve of whom were taken into the boats from the water while the weather conditions were favorable and the sea perfectly calm and yet it is said by some well-meaning persons that the best of discipline prevailed.

Tribute to Operators.

Senator Smith paid a tribute to the actions of the wireless operators for the faithful performance of their duty and made a passing criticism upon the White Star line for having sent the mysterious telegram to Representative Hughes, of West Virginia, telling of the rescue of passengers and that they were enroute to Halifax when, he insisted, they were aware that many hours before the ship had gone to the bottom. Senator Smith reviewed the testimony of Captain Lord, of the California, who was within twenty miles of the sinking Titanic, yet, according to the senator, did not do his full duty.

"Yet the failure of Captain Lord," said Senator Smith, "to arouse the wireless operator on his ship, who could have easily ascertained the name of the vessel in distress and reached her in time to avert loss of life, places a tremendous responsibility upon this officer from which it will be difficult for him to escape. Had he been as vigilant in the movement of his vessel as he was active in displaying his own signal lamp, there is a very strong probability that every human life that was sacrificed through this disaster could have been saved. The dictates of humanity should have prompted vigilance under such conditions."

Praise for Rostron.

Comparing Captain Lord's conduct with that of Captain Rostron, of the Carpathia, Smith said of the latter:

"He should be made to realize the debt of gratitude this nation owes to him, while the book of good deeds which had so often been familiar with his unaffected valor, should henceforth carry the name of Captain Rostron to the remotest period of time.

"It falls to the lot of few men to perform a service so unselfish, and the American congress can honor itself no more by any single act than by writing into its laws the gratitude we feel toward this modest and kindly man.

"The lessons of this hour are, indeed, fruitless and its precepts ill-conceived if rules of action do not follow hard upon the day of reckoning. Obsolete and antiquated shipping laws should no longer encumber the parliamentary records of any government and overripe administrative boards should be pruned of dead branches and less sterile precept taught and applied."

HE REMEMBERS DIVORCED WIFE

Husband Arranges Insurance Before Ending His Life.

San Francisco, May 27.—Leaving a note asking a friend to be sure to certify to his death so that his divorced wife might collect life insurance amounting to $20,000, Joseph West Robinson, member of a wealthy family of Atlanta, Georgia, ended his life by firing a revolver bullet into his mouth at the Golden West hotel.

In the note, which was addressed to Robert Grant, living at the Hotel Normandie, Robinson directed that no attention be paid to disposing of his body. He was willing to be buried in the potters' field by the city, he intimated, but wanted his wife to collect his insurance.

Another note was addressed to Robinson's wife, who before her marriage was Lucy Stid, of Rome, Georgia. The Robinsons were divorced six years ago and Mrs. Robinson is now living, with their three grown children, in Pasadena. Word was sent to her there today. The suicide occurred yesterday.

Committee Prepares To Handle June Crowds.

THE FIGHT MAY BE LONG-DRAWN-OUT

Big Session Expected To Be a Lively One.

Sample Tickets for Republican National Convention Are in Hands of Sub-Committee—Politicians See a Big Battle Ahead—Distribution of Seats Is Awarded and Allotments Are Made.

Chicago, May 28.—Changes in the seating plans at the Republican national convention that will increase the number of seats were decided on by the sub-committee on arrangements, Monday. Under the new plan, the total number of seats will be 11,198. There will be 1,932 seats on the platform. Representatives of foreign powers, editors of newspapers and visitors of importance will be given these seats.

Under the new plan, there will be 1,078 seats for delegates and a like number for alternates with 400 seats reserved for working newspaper men. There will be space for 3,500 guests and visitors on the main floor and 2,500 in the balconies.

Sample Tickets Out.

Chicago, May 28.—Sample tickets to the Republican national convention in the hands of the sub-committee today are, according to politicians here, a frank admission on the part of the committee that the big session in Chicago in June may be a long-drawn-out fight. The tickets are being issued for June 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22. The latter ticket read: "Good for Saturday, June 22, and all days thereafter that the convention may continue."

Four years ago the convention ended Friday. The fact that special provision has been made for a Saturday session and that the tickets are good beyond that date are believed to indicate that the national committee sees the possibility of a deadlock.

Aside from those already mentioned the following have filed statements:

In Monday's Star it was stated that Mr. Messenger had expended the sum of $15. This was an error, as that amount was spent by J. C. Messenger, of Claridon, one of the Republican nominees for county commissioner.

FARMING IN ALASKA.

The Tama valley in Alaska, of the agricultural possibilities of which we have heard so much during the past few years, has after all is said, a winter climate that offers some discouragements to those in search of virgin soil farming opportunity. There isn't going to be any rush of farmers to the Tama Valley until farming opportunity in several other sections of North and South America is entirely monopolized. But, none the less, it is being demonstrated that certain food products can be grown in Alaska, and that is a very important discovery.

The government has established an agricultural experiment station in the vicinity of Fairbanks and has already demonstrated that cabbage, cauliflower, potatoes, turnips, lettuce, rhubarb, carrots, beets, parsnips, radishes, onions, celery, cucumbers and mushrooms can be raised with a fair degree of success. There are big profits for farmers at present because there is a mining population which takes all the fresh vegetables which can be produced at fancy prices. It is likely that for some time to come the home demand for garden stuff in Alaska will be far beyond the supply.

The growing season in the far North territory is short—less than ninety days. But the sun pours down night and day during the growing period, and vegetation just hums. A cherished theory of the enthusiastic Alaskans is that some day this Northland will sustain a population of 3,000,000. They claim that agricultural opportunity is just as inviting in Alaska as in Norway, Sweden or Finland. When the mining business—coal, iron, copper—gets into full swing it is expected that agriculture will follow as an inevitable sequence. — Baltimore American.

Three Self-Confessed Anarchists in Custody.

The Authorities Will Give but Little Information Relatives to the Scope of Cabal, Nor Will They Tell How Many Arrests Are Made—King Victor Is Well Guarded by Police and Secret Service Agents.

Rome, May 27.—Wholesale arrests are being made throughout Italy today as the result of the discovery of a plot to assassinate King Victor Emanuel of Italy. The discovery of the plot followed admissions made by Antonio D'Alba, the young anarchist who tried to shoot King Victor Emanuel several months ago. A number of alleged conspirators have already been taken into custody at Milan, Naples, Rome and Bologna. At least three self-confessed anarchists are said to have been arrested here. The authorities will give no information relative to the scope of the cabal, nor will they admit how many arrests have been made.

It is believed the authorities have been investigating the ramifications of the plot for some time. After D'Alba was arrested in Rome, charged with attempted assassination, he clung to a story that he was alone in the matter.

Various Rumors Abound.

There were rumors of various sorts One of these was that D'Alba was in the pay of Turkey; another was that he had been elected by an anarchist society to kill the king. The belief most generally accepted at the time, however, was that D'Alba had gone insane through reading accounts of Italians killed in the war with Turkey.

That the police have delayed making arrests until the last minute, so as not to arouse suspicion and hinder their investigations is evident. It is known that many other arrests will be made

In the meantime, King Victor exposes himself as little as possible, but when he appears in public he is escorted by a strong guard, while secret service agents mingle with the crowds

CLASS IS GRADUATED FROM PROSPECT SCHOOLS

Fourteen Young Men and Women Finish Studies.

EXERCISES ARE HELD IN THE OPERA-HOUSE

Motto of the Class Is "Get There." The Diplomas Are Presented by J. B. Barker, the Superintendent of the Public Schools—A Review of the Orations Delivered.

Prospect, O., May 24.—[Special.]—A very imposing scene marked the commencement exercises of the class of 1912 of the Prospect public schools. The class included nine young women and five young men, the second largest class ever graduated from the schools.

The exercises were held at the opera-house, Thursday evening. The stage presented a beautiful appearance with its background of ferns and foliage, and the class flower, the white rose, was used profusely in the decorations.

The members of the class were seated on the stage and above them was suspended their motto, "Get There," in the class colors, purple and gold.

The program was opened with a selection by an orchestra from Marion. Rev. M. D. Bumgardner, of the M. E. church invoked the divine blessing after which the High School Girls' Glee club rendered a vocal selection, "Down in the Dewey Dell."

Thomas Truman Dix was the first member of the class to speak. He chose for his subject, "The Arms in the Coat," which he delivered in a forceful manner. He said, "Time was when a coat of arms meant a great deal—now its the arms in the coat. We are not taking so much stock in family trees as formerly, but are advancing mentally and physically."

Miss Freeda L. Brownmiller followed with her oration, "Joan of Arc." She took her hearers back in ancient history where the storm clouds of war hung thick and heavy over France, and told of the young girl who died a martyr's death for her country. She said that history portrays numberless martyrs more or less pure and glorious. To keep good is not the gift of a happy nature alone, but it is strength and heroism. Her oration was very good.

Sunbeams and Shadows.

Miss Freda Katherine Gast then stepped to the front and in a sweet manner delivered her oration, "Sunbeams and Shadows of Life."

"Life's wide garden is a wonderful plan of wonderful things, abounding with interesting and commonplace inhabitants," said the speaker. "It is a garden of roses, of thorns and of dreams. When our ambitions are not realized, our ideals too high and our dreams do not come true, the shadows creep into our lives, lengthen and sometimes remain."

"The Beauties of Nature" was the subject chosen by Miss Fannie Dix, which was well delivered. She said that the whole world was a temple forever filled with oracles of nature from the one who is divine. There is beauty hidden everywhere, from the smallest flower to the giant oak. But many walk through life with eyes that see not, and ears that hear not.

The members of the male quartet, Morrison Gast, Jesse Hess, Harold Osborn and Truman Dix, rendered a pleasing selection, after which GFeorge Wieland Wolfley delivered his oration, "Universal Peace." This showed careful thought and was well rendered. Mr. Wolfley said that if one watched the newspaper statements from day to day of the expenditures for national armaments he would be inclined to think that the world has not changed, that wars will always remain reminders of death and a menace to social progress. But it is hoped the time will come when the world will have universal peace.

Past and Future.

"The Past and the Future," was the subject of a pleasing oration by Miss Adelaide Milligan. She said, "Our lives are like fields thoroughly and continuously cultivated on and up to the time of the expected successful garnering. Every youth is a sower in the field of life."

Earl D. Bensley chose for his subject, "The Advantage of Difficulties." "The difficulties so often feared by people of today are the stepping stones to fame. There is no misfortune which a resolute will can not transform to some advantage" said Mr. Bensley in the course of his fine oration.

Miss Bernice Irene Smith followed with a very good oration, "The March of Man." She pointed her hearers to the primitive times, to the progress of man in the stone and metal age, coming on down to the present time where she says, "America stands the acknowledged power of the world, a noble monument to the onward march of man."

After a selection by the orchestra Miss Ivo Earick delivered a very interesting essay, "Acres of Diamonds." She said, "Great things are the aggregate of littles, so great opportunities are generally the result of wise improvement of the small ones. Success in all departments is won by attention to the little things."

"True Success" was the subject of a thoughtful oration by Miss Mary R. Landes. "We are placed in this world for a purpose and it can not be fulfilled without meeting difficulties. The talent of success is doing what you can do well, and doing well whatever you can do," said Miss Landes.

Talk on Citizenship.

Harry Albert Lauer then followed with his oration, "Our Citizenship," which was nicely delivered. He said that the country's safety lies in the strength of the American citizenship, and it must remain in the ascendency. The citizen is supreme.

Miss Gail Imogene Smeltzer then delivered in a general manner her oration, "The Gospel of Work" She said, "The world is just beginning to realize the significance of work. It is the very essence of life. Action is the cry of the times. Life is the training school in which the soul is refined and purified for work."

After another selection by the glee club, C. Delanoe Boxwell spoke on "Government by Commission." In a distinct voice he began by saying: "The keenest men of municipal affairs would not have predicted that the devastation of Galveston in 1900 would lead to a new form of government in our American cities. He gave many interesting points on this subject.

The last member of the class to speak was Miss Ruth Mary Moyer, her subject being "The Man With a Message," which she delivered in a pleasing manner. She said "Every man has a message, for, why should God's handiwork be put into the world for naught when even the smallest plants and insects have a purpose."

The diplomas were presented by J. B. Barker, superintendent of the schools, who spoke a word of encouragement to each graduate as he presented them. The benediction was pronounced by Rev A M. Chapin, of the Presbyterian church.

A DISTRICT MEETING OF KING'S DAUGHTERS

Sessions Were Held in the First Presbyterian Church.

MISS GERALDINE HORD PRESIDING OFFICER

The Sessions Were Closed Friday Evening—Mrs. Sarah Gugle, of Toledo, Delivered an Address. She Is the State President of the Church Organization.

A district meeting of the King's Daughters, was held at the First Presbyterian church, Friday. The sessions were opened shortly after 10 o'clock, Friday morning, with Miss Geraldine Hord, county secretary, presiding.

Miss Laura Baldwin, of Marysville, conducted the devotional exercises with which the program was opened. After the hymn of the "Lead As We Go," Mrs. John Huber gave greetings from the Whatsoever circle. A large part of the remaining time was devoted to the reports of the various circles. Many of the reports were of great value to the workers. It appeared to be the opinion of those in attendance that the reports should be regularly written out and preserved for the benefit of all concerned.

Leads Discussion.

Mrs. Charles Gallinger, of Bucyrus, led the discussion, "The Use of the Literature of the Order." The discussion was very profitable. The session was closed with the singing of a hymn.

Seven counties are represented at the meeting. They are Marion, Delaware, Union, Franklin, Champaign, Crawford and Morrow counties. A goodly number of representatives from the various counties and circles were in attendance at the session, Friday morning. A number of local workers were also in attendance.

Friday Evening Session.

Mrs. Sarah F. Gugle, of Toledo, state president of the King's Daughters, gave the address at the Friday evening session of the district meeting at the First Presbyterian church. She was heard by a fair-sized audience

Miss Geraldine Hord presided at the evening session, which was opened shortly after 7:30 o'clock. Rev. George M. Rourke, conducted the devotional exercises, and B Pearce contributed a vocal solo. He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Rhea Munnell. Following the address, Mrs. Emma Voorhees contributed a solo and was accompanied by Mrs Donald Hamilton on the piano.

"Preparation for Service," was the theme of Mrs. Gugle's address. She based her thoughts on the early career of Moses.

"So far as general equipment was concerned, Moses appeared ready for his life work," she said. "He was a man of mature judgment at forty years of age. Socially, he had enjoyed all the advantages of the Egyptian court. A son of the daughter of the pharaoh, he had been in position to obtain the best schooling of Egypt He was a scholar, a general and a leader. It was evident that Moses would think that he was ready for his life work. But it was not so. He was not ready spiritually.

"God's ways of doing things are sometimes hard to understand Abraham was called at seventy-five years, Jacob at fifty years and Joseph at seventeen years. Moses was forty now, and he had to go into the desert for forty years more, and be called to service at eighty. When he had gone into the desert, he came out with a bowed head. He was ready spiritually. For our spiritual preparation, we must have God as our helper and realize that our efforts are of value Education will never make a spiritual man. It takes God to do that. God wants us. We can not sit in our easy chairs and hand out money and expect to win God's greatest favor. Vision and service are the words which the Christian should keep constantly before his mind."

Following the address, Mrs. Gugle conducted the consecration service.

Several interesting talks were made at the Friday afternoon session. Mrs. Clara E Talbot, of Mechanicsburg, conducted the devotions, and Mrs. W. N. Harder contributed a solo. After a hymn, Mrs. F. E Truax, of Columbus, gave a talk "How Increase Interest in Circles—Why Do They Die?" Another solo was contributed by Mrs. Harder and Mrs. J C. Guthrie, of Marysville, gave an excellent talk, "Value of Little Things." The quiet hour was conducted by Mrs James McCamm, of Marysville. During the session, Mrs. Charles Gallinger, of Bucyrus, gave a report of the national convention held at Louisville some time ago

SETTLEMENT OF THE THATCHER WILL CASE

Matter of N. E. Thatcher Against Crosby and Others.

AGREEMENT AS TO SETTING ASIDE WILL

The Maker of the Will Dies, July 16, 1908—Plaintiff Charges That the Paper Admitted to Probate Is Not the Last Will of Father. Common Pleas Court Notes.

As a result of a settlement effected by counsel, the trial of the suit of Ned E. Thatcher against Francis E. Crosby and others, in the court of common pleas, Monday, was mere formality. Judge W. E. Scofield was on the bench.

By the terms of the agreement the will is to be set aside, but the amount of the consideration received by the defendants is not given out.

The action to contest the will of the late Dr. John W. Thatcher, to set aside the will, and for the costs and equitable relief, was begun by Ned E. Thatcher July 5, 1911. The following were named as defendants: Frances E. Crosby, Lillian B. Thatcher, Sidney L. Thatcher, Katie L. Wilson, Louisa R. Reeves, Mary A. Monahan and Ned E. Thatcher, the latter being administrator of the estate of his father, the late Dr. John W. Thatcher.

In his petition, Ned E. Thatcher sets up that his father died July 16, 1908, leaving an estate to the plaintiff, his only son and sole heir.

June 20, 1911, the plaintiff alleges that a certain paper-writing, purporting to be the decedent's last will and testament was admitted to probate. He says it was not the last will and testament of his father and asked that it be set aside and held for naught.

In the will admitted to probate the following bequests were made:

All money remaining, after the payment of funeral expenses and debts, to Lillian B. Thatcher, daughter of Lorenzo Thatcher, a brother, of Oregon City, Oregon; watch and chain, books, bookcases, trunks and contents, and a farm of 103¼ acres in Canaan township, Morrow county, to Ned E. Thatcher, a son; lots Nos. 63 and 64 on North State street, this city; to Louisa Reeves, of Dayton, for life, and at her death to Sidney L. Thatcher, son of Ned E. Thatcher; 12½ acres, known as the old homestead place in Morrow county, to Frances E. Crosby, of Dayton, for life, and at her death to Katie L. Wilson, daughter of Nancy Jane Wilson, of Edison, a sister of the decedent; lot No. 557 in Aronhalt's addition, Marion, to Mrs. Mary A. Monahan, at whose home the decedent died. The last named property has been deeded to Mrs. Monahan.

The will bears the late of June 19, 1908, less than a month before Dr. Thatcher died. Crissinger & Guthery and Copeland & Bartram represent Ned E. Thatcher, and John H. Clark, of Marion, and T. B. Mateer, of Mt Gilead, are attorneys for the defendants.

In the suit of John H. Clark, as administrator of the estate of Frederick F. Miller, deceased; Jacob Miller and John Dickason, against the Chicago & Erie Railroad company, the defendant, through Crissinger & Guthery, Friday, filed an answer, setting up a general denial The plaintiffs seek to recover damages alleged to have been caused by sparks from a locomotive.

In a similar suit brought by John H. Clark, as administrator of the estate of Frederick F. Miller, deceased, and George W. Parker, the railroad company has filed an answer setting up a general denial.

Taking only the testimony of the dead man's wife, Rosa Waters, Coroner W. H. Hinklin, in his finding on the death of Jonathan B. Waters, who was found dead with a bullet wound in his head, last Thursday, declared that death was due to the accidental discharge of a gun. The finding of the coroner was filed with County Clerk W. W. Klinefelter, Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Waters testified that she had known her husband thirty years and that they had always lived peaceably together. The last time she saw him, she says, was about 2 or 4 p. m. and the last she talked with him was about 1 p m., May 23. "He was out at the car," the testimony reads, "and shot the loads out of the gun and said that he would shoot among the sparrows and scare them from the peas in the garden, but shot the loads of the gun to clean it. About 3 or 4 o'clock we heard a shot and about fifteen or twenty minutes she went out and found him lying on the cot in the car"

Messrs. D. A. Franks, Grant Copeland and John Hanley, jury commissioners met in the courthouse, Monday, to begin their task of selecting the names of citizens to be placed in the jury-wheel.

In the suit of Lizzie Pine, as next best friend, against John D. Owens and others, the defendants have filed an answer, setting up a general denial. The suit is a sequel to a dynamite explosion at the Owens quarries, June 1, 1911, when a workman named Robinson was killed and Leonard Pine, under the age of twenty-one years, was injured.

An answer, praying that the petition be dismissed in the suit of Frand J. Weldy against Edmund S. Milligan, has been filed in the court of common pleas by the defendant. He sets up a general denial. This is a suit to compel the enforcement of a land contract.

In the suit of the Marion County Bank company against J. G. Mann and others, the Plaintiff has filed a demurrer to the answer of B. B. McVey for the reason that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

The answer of the plaintiff to the cross-petition of W. T. Owen, administrator de bonis non with the will annexed of the estate of Henry Cope, deceased, has been filed by the Home Building, Savings & Loan company in its suit against E. E. Bush and others. It denies that as such administrator or otherwise, W. T. Owen filed his petition in the probate court to sell the real estate described in its petition, in order to pay the decedent's debts. The plaintiff further says that the probate court was without jurisdiction in appointing Owen as administrator .

The divorce action of Catherine W. Shuck against John T. Shuck was dismissed by Judge W E. Scofield, Monday morning, at the costs of the plaintiff, although a reconciliation has not been effected, according to Mrs. Shuck's attorney, H. Edmond Hill. The plaintiff to the suit may go to California to live with relatives there.

The suit of Roy Frye against Sarah Lewis and others, an action to marshal liens, has been settled out of court, the petition being dismissed by Judge Scofield, Monday.

The defunct Ohio Milling & Elevator company's property, which was advertised at sheriff's sale, Saturday afternoon, did not sell because, it is believed the appraisement of $12,000 was too high. The property is located along the railroad near the Big Four freight-house.

Some time ago Receiver Roscoe Oborn went into common pleas court and asked that the property be appraised, setting up that the former appraisement was too low in view of the fact that the property had greatly enhanced in value. Appraisers were accordingly appointed and the valuation was fixed at $12,000. The result was that no one was found willing to bid on it, because, under the law, the property had to sell at two-thirds of its appraised value.

It took just twenty minutes to empanel a jury and set aside the will of the late Dr. John W. Thatcher in the court of common pleas, Monday morning. The case had been settled before it went to trial, but it was necessary to go through the legal formality in order to carry out the settlement, the terms of which are unknown. The defendants, Frances Crosby and others, did not contest. Ned E. Thatcher, a son of the decedent, and the plaintiff and John Winch were the only witnesses examined.

The jurors were: A. J. Manley, J. W. Kennedy, M. J. Morral, W. W. Hinds, Garrett Harris, A. F. Goerlich, D. W. Lehman, Michael and Peter Jacoby, Judd E. Bending and R. M. Hipple.

A suit to partition the estate of the late John Charles Markert was filed in the court of common pleas, Monday afternoon, by Paul Markert, a son, through Carhart & Wagner. Charles A. Markert and Nellie Markert, his wife; Oscar W. Markert and Daisy Markert, his wife; Walter Markert, Louise Markert, the last named being the widow of the decedent; W. A. Wadsworth, and the Marion Building, Savings & Loan company.

Murderer Lies in Wait for Husband and Wife as They Return from an Automobile Trip—Gun Wielder Admits Crime and Tells Tale of Alienation, Suits and Other Troubles—The Details.

San Diego, Cal., May 27.—Bert Lewis, nursing an old grudge, laid in wait for C. H. Tolliver and his wife and riddled them with bullets as they entered their home after an automobile trip. Lewis was formerly secretary for Tolliver and was familiar with his home. He coaxed away the bulldog on guard and tied the dog up. Then when the Tolliversappeared he opened fire and shot 17 times from an automatic revolver. Tolliver fell dead. Mrs. Tolliver had just strength enough to reach the telephone and call the police, when she dropped and expired.

Lewis was found near by, greatly excited. He confessed to the murder and declared it was due to the fact that the Tolliversh had induced his wife to leave him.

Tolliver was well known in San Francisco, where he induced many people to invest in his airship stock. He built an enormous dirigible balloon with an aluminum frame and his wife helped him, stitching the silk. Just before the first trial a storm wrecked the balloon. Tolliver then went to San Diego, where he organized a company and built a second balloon, but this he never tested.

Lewis sued Tolliver for alienating his wife's affections, but lost the suit. Then Tolliver sued Lewis for borrowed money and won the case. It was anger over this that led to the murders.

THEODORE ZUCK IS VERY BADLY BURNED

Mrs. A. Hossler Saves Lad from Worse Burns.

Theodore, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zuck, of Windsor street, was seriously burned as a result of a peculiar accident, Monday. The boy was engaged in cleaning some paint brushes for his mother and was using gasoline in the work. During the operation, he poured some of the fluid on a piece of hot tin and the gasoline exploded, setting fire to his clothes.

The boy ran frantically towards Mrs. A. Hossler, a neighbor, who had just come from her cellar with some wet clothes to hang on the line. The woman threw some of the clothes around the boy and rolled him on the ground, extinguishing the flames. He was removed to his home and Dr. J. B, Taylor was called to attend him. The lad was badly burned on both legs from his thighs down to his knees.

THE RAILROADS.

Clarence Parr, a boilermaker apprentice at the Erie roundhouse, was the victim of a very serious accident while at work about 10:30 o'clock Sunday morning, as a result of which he lost his right arm. Parr, who is a young man just learning the work, allowed the sleeve of his blouse to be caught in an air-drill and the arm was drawn into the machinery in such a manner as to crush and lacerate the member terribly. The victim was assisted by fellow workmen, but not until very serious injuries to the arm had been inflicted. He was immediately transferred in the M. H. Gunder ambulance to the Marion City hospital, where Dr. A. Rhu, the company surgeon, gave him attention. It was necessary to amputate the arm at the shoulder.

John Butler, who resides on Barnhart street, was found along the Big Four railroad tracks near Lincoln avenue, Saturday evening, about 10:30 o'clock, suffering of a serious injury to his head and a number of bruises. He was transferred to the Marion City hospital in the Hess & Markert ambulance, where he was given attention by Dr. A. Rhu. His injuries were of such a character as to indicate that he had been thrown from a car after being robbed. His purse, found on his person, contained $3.95, however.

Up until late Monday morning he had not regained consciousness at the hospital, and his story could not be learned. His name was learned as the result of the finding of a receipt on his person. Butler suffers a minor fracture of the skull and several cuts and bruises about the body. He has a wife and three children, who reside on Barnhart street.

It is reported that certain Belgian interests have concluded to construct an electric railway from London to Windsor, to which end a charter has been obtained.
